

Education Board
Accepts Stockade
For Girls' High

McCalley Is Only Member to Vote Against Acceptance of Bond Commission's Choice of Site.

MAYOR KEY OPPOSES
ASKING REFERENDUM

Meeting of Protest Called at Baptist Tabernacle Saturday Night - Citizens Cheer Site.

With but one member standing in opposition, the city stockade property was accepted by the school board Friday afternoon as the site for the senior girls' high school.

Spirited speeches preceded the vote. Mayor Key attacked the suggestion to let the people settle the controversy by ballot. "I'm not unmindful of the fact that this is a people's government," he said, "but I'm also mindful that the people have elected representatives here. If they lack the capability and the courage to decide this question let them step down and out."

"When Atlanta is a city of 500,000 population—and that won't be so many years hence—the stockade site, instead of being remote, will be on the inner fringe of our resident population. Most of the protests against it are simply appeals to prejudice, and there have been so many appeals to prejudice in this town that I am sick and tired of it."

Wants Adult School. The mayor said he hoped the stockade building would be allowed to stand and be converted by the board into an adult "opportunity school," where adults, who have lost their opportunity of an education in earlier life, may receive specialized training which will fit them to become better earners and better citizens.

Commissioner Carl Hutcherson declared it was the board's duty to choose a site and not "pass the buck to the people." He warned that if an election were ordered, "some of these spellbinders and card writers might get in their work and pull the school to the north side."

Mr. Hutcherson scored a card written by Rev. C. B. Wilmer protesting against the prison property as "not only absurd, coming from a man of his ability, but silly." He read Dr. Wilmer's card in which the minister said that the prison plot might retain disease germs that would endanger the girls' institution built there.

"I say this card is a reflection upon the people of this community," he asserted. "If the place were that full of germs the people around there would be full of germs. Mayor Key plays golf out there; he'd be full."

Commissioner W. L. McCalley, who voted alone against the stockade tract, filed a minority report setting forth his reasons, as follows: "The survey report recommends, which recommendation is based on facts, that this school be located in what is known as the south side of the city. The location of the stockade is in the eastern section of the city. The transportation facilities are totally inadequate, and in my humble opinion, due to the trunk line system, will never be brought to a satisfactory state of completion, thereby forever and eternally imposing on the girls who reside in the various sections of the city too distant to walk, an undue and unjust hardship and a stumbling block in their path to education."

"This site is adjoining what is destined to become an industrial area. The thought of placing the institution for the education of our girls, the future mothers and the fairest of the land, on a site that has met a storm of protest from the student body, the alumni and the citizens generally, aside from the psychological objection, the thought of the name and history of the place and the power of suggestion is a recognized factor that must be considered, but is

HARDING BELIEVED
NEUTRAL IN FIGHT
ON VOLSTEAD LAW

Observers Say His Letters Indicate He Would Not Veto Any Modification of 'Dry' Act.

FOUR FIGHTS LOOMING ON PROHIBITION QUESTION

First Move Will Be for Light Wines and Beer. Law to Deport Alien 'Dry' Violators Planned.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel. Washington, November 17.—(By Constitution Bureau Wire).—President Harding would not veto any modification of the Volstead act permitting the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer.

This is the conclusion drawn by observers tonight from statements made today in administration circles commenting on the president's two recently published letters dealing with the prohibition question. While not relinquishing his views pertaining to enforcement of the existing constitutional amendment and the laws now on the statute books, he will be governed by the action of congress in the matter, it was said.

The two letters written by the chief executive are said to have no bearing on the "wet" and "dry" fight which is expected to assume great proportions in the next congress. They were written, it was explained, from the viewpoint of an observer who sees a "shifting of views" on the prohibition question and who acknowledges the growth of the question as an issue which will occupy a prominent place in American affairs for some time.

May Be Forerunner.

At the same time the opinion was expressed in some quarters that the president's decision on the subject might prove to be the forerunner of a "wet" plank in the republican platform in 1924. With a growing sentiment in favor of modification of the Volstead act, as manifested in the recent elections, it is argued that the republican party could more easily accept liberal views than the democrats because of the dominating prohibition influence in the south, the backbone of the democratic party. So much has prohibition come to the front since the elections that the chief question heard around Washington is "When do we get light wine and beer?"

At the capital it is now agreed that at least four phases of the issue will come before congress in the coming winter, excluding attempts at

GENERAL WRIGHT
DIES IN MEMPHIS

Well-Known Diplomat Served as Governor-General of Philippines and as Secretary of War.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Memphis, Tenn., November 17.—General Luke E. Wright, former secretary of war and ex-governor of the Philippines, died at his home here at 7:30 o'clock tonight after an illness of several months.

General Wright, who had been prominent in the professional and business life of Memphis for more than a half century, suffered a fall several months ago and since had been in failing health. For more than a week he had been only semi-conscious and his death has been expected momentarily for three days. His wife, who was a daughter of Admiral Raphael Semmes, of the Confederate navy; his son Semmes, and two daughters, Mrs. John H. Watkins and Mrs. M. R. Palmer, of New York, were with him at the time of his death.

General Wright, who was born in Tennessee in 1846, was a Confederate veteran, serving with distinction, first with the 54th Tennessee infantry and later joining Wright's battery, an artillery unit.

Although a democrat in politics, he was first appointed to federal office by President McKinley, who named him a member of the Philippine commission. Later he became vice governor and then governor-general of the islands. He resigned the latter position in 1906 to become ambassador to Japan. During the year he spent in Tokyo he handled a number of delicate situations arising from California's protest against the "open door" as it applied to Japanese immigration.

He resigned as ambassador to become secretary of war in President Roosevelt's cabinet. Following his resignation he spent several months in world travel, afterward returning to his home in Memphis and resuming the practice of law.

Pretty Woman Charges Husband
Betrayed Her in Getting Divorce

Mrs. Varnetta Regar Will Try to Annul Divorce Decree Secured at Cost of Her Good Name.

Declaring that her four years of married life was "just one continuous series of wild booze parties, cigarette smoking and drunken companions," pretty Mrs. Varnetta Regar, former Augusta society girl now living in a fashionable apartment at 963 Ponce de Leon avenue, Friday voiced a sweeping denial that she is responsible for her blasted war-time romance and announced she will immediately institute divorce annulment proceedings against Gordon R. Regar, son of a wealthy Norristown, Pa., hosiery manufacturer.

She also declares that the scion of the wealthy Pennsylvania house who wedded her, following a romantic elopement in Augusta on Christmas eve, 1917, recently obtained an uncontested divorce illegally and that he violated a "gentleman's agreement" in defaming her character to obtain it. She says that the "wild parties at times came within the category of debaucheries," and that her handsome young husband taught her to smoke and drink and encouraged her in these habits.

Mrs. Regar also claimed that she had "happened upon" several letters addressed to her husband from "another woman," which showed to her satisfaction "that he and not she had been guilty of misconduct."

Regar in his testimony in the chancery court in Norristown charged his wife with making engagements with men and taking them for long rides in his automobile. He also alleged that his wife kept engagements with men friends at fashionable tea rooms in Philadelphia.

In addition to alluding to his wife's

Woman Is Saved
From Gallows
By Her Smiles

Women Jurors Not Affected, But They Play Havoc With the Men.

Los Angeles, Cal., November 17.—Mrs. Clara Phillips was saved from the gallows by her smiles.

The men members of the jury which found her guilty of second degree murder for beating Mrs. Alberta Tremaine Meadows to death were quoted today as admitting that had it not been for the defendant's smiles she probably would have been convicted of first degree murder, without a recommendation for clemency, thus making death the only penalty. They said that Mrs. Phillips seemed to study them, one at a time, and to flash frequent smiles at them. The women jurors were not affected by it, it was stated, as all three favored a verdict which would have sent Mrs. Phillips to the gallows.

The defense planned to ask a new trial Monday, the time set for passing sentence, which may be any period of years from ten to life. One newspaper reporter quoted Mrs. Phillips as saying: "I don't know whether I killed Alberta Meadows or not, but if I did, it was for mother love, for Ammon L. Phillips, my husband, is my only baby, and when I realized he was being taken from me, I fought, and fought and fought, so I might have him always."

DEATH OF INJURED
GIRL IS FEARED

Hazel Brown Is Knocked Down by W. R. Gray's Auto—He Rushes Her Home in Car.

Hazel Brown, 12, of 300 West Tenth street, is at the Davis-Fischer hospital, probably fatally injured as a result of having been knocked down by an automobile, said to have been driven by W. R. Gray, 20, of 78 Hampton street, on Tenth street, near Hampton, Friday afternoon about 5:20 o'clock.

Details of the accident are not known to the police. An investigation is being held. Surgeons at the hospital say her skull may be fractured and she may be internally injured. Little hope is held for her recovery. She is said to be the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Brown. Immediately after striking the girl, Mr. Gray stopped his car and carried her to her home near by. She was carried to the Davis-Fischer hospital in an ambulance of Awtry & Lowndes. After going to the hospital Gray came to police station and reported the accident. Call Officers J. E. McDaniel and J. H. Crankshaw, who investigated it, preferred charges of reckless driving against him, owing to the serious condition of the little girl.

POINCARÉ GIVEN
CONFIDENCE VOTE

Debate Adjourned to Allow Premier to Devote Time to the Lausanne Conference.

Will Hold Conference. Paris, November 17.—The conference between Premier Poincaré, of France, and Lord Curzon, British foreign minister, on the Near Eastern situation is to be held Saturday.

They will discuss the allied program to be presented at the peace parley with the Turkish nationalists at Lausanne next week. Poincaré and Curzon leave here Sunday for Lausanne. They will pick up Premier Mussolini, of Italy, en route.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Paris, November 17.—The chamber of deputies this evening gave a vote of confidence to Premier Poincaré on the eve of the Lausanne peace conference and after a month of intermittent debate on the interior and exterior policies of his government.

The vote was 462 to 71. The entire chamber, excepting the extremists on both sides, and the communists, socialists and royalists, voted in favor of the government.

The debate, however, was left unfinished, being merely adjourned for another month in order to leave the premier free to occupy himself with the Lausanne conference.

Assembly Meeting Urged. Constantinople, November 17.—(By the Associated Press).—Rafet Pasha, the nationalist governor, has sent a message, to Ankara urging immediate convocation of the great national assembly to select a new caliph.

The most likely candidate for the caliphate is considered to be Abdul Medjid, cousin of the sultan and heir to the Ottoman throne.

"Notice.—As my husband, Calvin Boston, had a notice in the paper last week to the effect that I left his bed and board, and hence he will not be responsible for any debts contracted by me, I wish to notify the public that he never has paid any of my bills, as I have worked the past six years, paying all of my own bills. I did not leave his bed, as I bought and paid for the bed, and took it with me when I left. "ABBIE S. BOSTON."

ITALIAN CHAMBER
YIELDS TO WILL
OF NEW PREMIER

Fascisti Leader Is Given Vote of Confidence, 306 to 116, Radicals Being His Only Opponents.

HAS BROADEST POWER
EVER GIVEN PREMIER

Vote Means That Mussolini Now Has Full Opportunity to Make Good His Pledge of Economy.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Rome, November 17.—The Italian chamber of deputies late tonight by a strong vote of confidence given the new government by Benito Mussolini, the fascist leader, placed the seal of legality on a movement which three weeks ago was considered by the then ruling authorities as rebellion and revolution. The vote was 306 to 116.

Mussolini conquered the chamber with the same methods he employed in leading the fascist legions into Rome. As the deputies scattered after the lengthy session, many of them, even those who had voted for the premier, who asked one another, "Will he prove to be a Sylla, a Cromwell or a Napoleon?" Prior to the debate, Mussolini had announced that he would allow only 11 deputies—one from each group—to address the chamber. Fifty-three members had desired to be heard. Hardly had the eleventh man concluded when the premier sprang to his feet and began replying to interpellations.

"Small States Cannot Exist." To Signor Cao, of Sardinia, he said he was glad to hear that Sardinia had abandoned the idea of separation from the motherland. "Small states cannot exist by themselves; we would have seen to it that Sardinia should live," he declared.

To Signor Wilfan, deputy for Trieste, and a member of the Slav group, who had complained that his countrymen did not have liberty, Mussolini said: "You Germans, Austrians and Slavs as minorities enjoy liberties of press, speech and meetings, all of which you were denied by the Italian majority under Austrian rule."

During the long session there were frequent verbal clashes between the socialists and members of the fascist. The excitement at times was intense. At one juncture the deputies became so violent that the speaker threatened to tender his resignation.

Meet Violent Attacks. The government during debate met with violent attacks from several of the deputies, notably Signor Turati, leader of the intransigent socialists; Signor Conti, head of the republicans; and Signor Nicotussi, head of the German group. To all their verbal thrusts, however, Mussolini was equal, replying sharply and to the point, in a manner similar to that he adopted in delivering his maiden speech outlining the government's policy on Thursday.

As an instance, when Turati spoke of the abominable manner in which Mussolini had treated the chamber, the premier replied testily, "I treated the chamber the way it deserved to be treated." When Conti said his party had three reasons for being against the new government, Mussolini told him to relate one good one and spare the deputies from hearing the others.

Mussolini prior to the vote told the deputies that it was the purpose of his government to play fairly with all classes and to show favors to none of them.

The debate and the vote of confidence

Until Satisfaction Is Given Questions Concerning Withdrawing Military Commissions Suspended.

NOTE FROM GERMANS
DECLARED "INSOLENT"

Communication Disregards Totally the Long Series of Notes of Complaint Sent by Allies.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Paris, November 17.—The allied powers through the council of ambassadors have informed Germany that all questions concerning the withdrawal of the military control commission in Germany have been suspended until the German government gives the fullest satisfaction for what are termed flagrant violations of the military clauses of the treaty of Versailles, committed during the past six months, and shows willingness to abide by the commission's instructions.

The note of the allies was sent after the receipt of a German communication which was termed "insolent to a degree." In this communication Germany is said to have disregarded totally the long series of notes of complaint sent by the allies and to have declared she was glad to learn the allies were about to end their military control and permit Germany to revert back to normal.

The note also ignored formal allied representation to the Berlin government of September 29, consequently the large number of acts of aggression against the allied military in their work of inspection.

The allied note of today demands an apology and reparations for recent incidents at Passau and Stettin. In requesting an immediate reply the allies say their patience is about exhausted.

The council of ambassadors also is making another demand for the Germans naval enlistment list, which has been repeatedly refused them the last six months.

The allies have decided to warn Germany that she will not be permitted to manufacture new war inventions in which she at present is said to be actively engaged. The allies, however, cannot prevent experiments in such inventions.

"WORN OUT PATIENCE." Paris, November 17.—(By the Associated Press).—"Germany has worn out Premier Poincaré's patience," declared the whole reparations question once more in reply to interpellations the premier said:

"We shall never get anything from Germany so long as we limit our action to prayers and supplications." Pressed by his interpellators to tell the chamber why the government had not taken more effective action, the premier replied:

"We did not want to do anything before a conference which we requested and at which the whole problem of reparations, interrelated war debts and international loans will be examined. We are agreed with Belgium that the conference should be held in December at Brussels and there we shall meet not only the British, Italians, Belgians and Japanese but all our allies."

Germans Ask More Time. Berlin, November 17.—(By the Associated Press).—Germany today requested further relief from reparations.

War With Japanese Is Not Impossible, Senator Harris Says

"The chances of war with Japan are greater than with any other country," Senator William J. Harris declared in an address before the student body and faculty of Emory university, Friday morning. Senator Harris is just back from a voyage on the Pacific as a member of the senate committee on fortifications.

He recommends strong fortification on the Hawaiian Islands and Pacific coast possessions of the United States because of the strategic position of the islands in case of war with Japan.

"Although the majority of Japanese do not want war, there is a strong party in that country which makes Japan the greatest menace to America," the senator said. "There is an element that hates the United States, and the fact that the Japanese emperor has the power to declare war furnishes a serious situation."

Relative to the Philippines, Mr. Harris said that he was convinced that the time had not yet arrived for their independence.

Senator William J. Harris also addressed the student bodies of Cox college and G. M. A. Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Cox college auditorium, giving them impressions received during a recent trip to Europe. Preceding the address he was the guest of the faculty of Cox college at a dinner. Music was furnished by the G. M. A. band.

Senator Harris leaves for Washington Saturday afternoon, in order to be present when the senate convenes Monday morning.

A Change in Diet May Be What You Need

Tone up your diet. Gain new life and health. Eat foods rich with food iron, food lime and vitamins. Here are the exact foods used at the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium. Thousands have found them a means of overcoming many of the ills resulting from improper diet. These foods furnish all the needed elements without which no family fare is complete.

The Exact Foods Used at Battle Creek Sanitarium

Minute Brew The only food wholly free from the poisons found in real coffee, may be used by invalids, by the children, by every one, without danger.45c

Protese A vegetable meat, better than beef for iron and contains all the nourishing properties of the hams, food iron and more besides. It has twice as much food iron for making blood, seven times as much food lime for the bone, and a richer store of vitamins than meats.65c

Sanitarium Cooked Bran The original "Cooked Bran" is not common "fodder" bran; but specially prepared, large selected flakes, clean and more efficient. Not only a good laxative but a genuine food for every one. A little bran every day, at every meal, is a splendid regulator of the bowels. Rich in food lime, food iron and vitamins.25c

Malted Nuts A most delicious and nourishing food of special value to invalids and those who cannot take milk, small children and infants. Contains two and a half times as much food iron as does cow's milk. The only vegetable substitute for milk. It should be freely used by pale, bloodless, anemic people.$1.00

Savita A purely vegetable extract which has the appearance and flavor of the finest meat extracts. Wonderful rich in water-soluble vitamins, which are so essential to growth. As a flavoring for soups, broths, and bouillons, Savita has no equal. 2-oz.35c 4-oz.55c

Laxa A soyfood, a combination of sterilized wheat bran and Agar which add needed bulk to the intestinal contents. The most efficient and most agreeable form of roughage. Encourages the bowels to act in a normal way.95c

Paralax A finely refined mineral oil. Leading physicians prescribe Paralax as a remedy for constipation because its action is purely mechanical. It is not absorbed, yet it does not "leak" from the bowels. Always soothing and ill effects. Promotes normal action.$1.25

Bran Biscuit A tasty, crisp and highly nourishing cracker. We have put into it a lot of clean bran and a high percentage of glucose. In addition to being a mild laxative, it is a great deal richer in food lime and food iron than ordinary bread, an ideal soup cracker and just the thing to encourage mastication.35c

FINGERS OF BOY NEARLY SEVERED BY SAUSAGE MILL

The four fingers on the hand of little 14-year-old Ernest Burge, 80
Emmett street, were practically severed by knife blades in the sausage mill in the Wallace Meat market,
504 Marietta street, Friday morning.
The youth, who is the son of J. M.
Burge, was rushed to the Grady hospital where surgeons seemed fearful he would lose his fingers.

Mrs. Burge, who accompanied her son to the hospital, stated he was employed in the market. She did not know whether he had operated the sausage mill before, but he said his hand got caught as he attempted to pack some meat in the mill as it was grinding.

PLAYS FOR HIS FATHER LISTENING IN FLORIDA

Walter Harms is Heard in Piano Numbers for His Parent.

One of the features of the 8 o'clock program from Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, last evening was the piano playing by Walter Harms, a pupil of Mrs. Anna Garrett Ware,
Atlanta teacher of piano.
Harms played four numbers especially for his father, J. Harms, who was listening at his home in Miami, Fla. The pianist will join his father there next week.
The numbers played by this talented pupil of Mrs. Ware were "Subliminal" by Kilkenny; "The Mountain Stream," by Smith; "Woodland Echoes," by Wyman, and "Shower of Stars," by Wachs.
All of the numbers were excellently given and showed excellent instruction on the part of Mrs. Ware.

BERRIEN'S APPEAL IN SUPREME COURT

School Bond Fraud Case Certified to the Highest Georgia Court by Court of Appeals.

The state court of appeals Friday in the case of R. N. Berrien, Jr., Atlanta broker, under sentence of three to five years in connection with misappropriating funds from state school bonds, certified seven questions involving the case to the supreme court. Berrien was charged with misappropriating approximately $43,000 of the proceeds from the sale of state school bonds to his own use and was convicted on two counts in Judge John D. Humphries' division of superior court. The questions certified by the court of appeals, before which Berrien applied for a new trial, were as follows:

1. Were the net proceeds of the warrant the property of the state or of Murray county?
2. Was the state school superintendent acting for the state or for Murray county when he delivered the warrant to Berrien, and would an allegation that Murray county entrusted the amount to Berrien be supported by proof that the warrant was delivered by the state?
3. Was the delivery of the warrant a bailment or a sale?
4. Where the state superintendent sent to the Murray county superintendent a warrant payable to him, which the Murray superintendent indorsed and returned to the state superintendent, who delivered it to Berrien and Berrien discounted the warrant and appropriated the proceeds, will this evidence support an indictment that alleges the superintendent of schools of Murray county entrusted Disloyalty Laid To State Heads Georgia G. O. P.

Seven Summoned to Atlanta to Face Trial—Two Won't Come.

To answer charges of "disloyalty to the party organization and to the Harding administration," several members of the republican state central committee have been summoned to appear in Atlanta on November 22, it became known Friday.

It was reported that those instructed to report for "trial" were Charles Adamson, of Cedarhurst; H. G. Hastings, of Atlanta; Clark Grier, of Augusta; Mrs. D. C. Cole, of Marietta; Roscoe Pickett, of Jasper; W. A. Carlie, of Gainesville, and Dr. Lawton Kirkland, of Savannah.

Soldier Confesses Killing in Atlanta, To Avoid Discipline

In a confession to military authorities at Fort Clark, Texas, Malcolm L. Wallace, a young soldier, admitted that he is wanted in Atlanta for the slaying of a negro watchman in 1921, and preferred to serve a term in the Georgia penitentiary in preference to a term in the guard house for violating army rules, according to a letter received Friday by the Georgia prison commission.

Grover Bell, secretary of the prison commission, after comparing the letter with a description of the alleged fugitive, stated that Wallace was evidently the person wanted. The homicide in which the negro watchman was slain occurred under the Bolivar avenue viaduct, in March, 1921, Wallace, or Thompson, the name under which he was later tried and convicted, being sentenced to life imprisonment. Records show that he escaped from the Barrow county chain gang in January, 1922.

A requisition on the governor of Texas for the return of Wallace will be asked by Governor Hardwick, it was stated.

Caterers Honor Zimmer.

Will V. Zimmer, well-known Atlanta business man, has been made an honorary life member of the American Caterers' association in recognition of his past service and present active work, it was announced Friday by the Atlanta convention bureau.

WITNESSES APPEAR AGAINST OLIVER

Five Southeastern Cities Represented on Stand in Embezzlement Trial of Rim Company President.

Following testimony by several persons from five southeastern cities as to the purchase of stock in the Oliver Rim company, the trial of Elmer Oliver, former president of the company, charged with embezzlement, was adjourned Friday afternoon until Monday.

The prosecution is seeking to show that when persons applied for stock in the Oliver Rim company, Oliver sold them stock which had been issued to him in exchange for his patent rights on an automobile rim instead of treasury stock. It is charged that in this manner Oliver misappropriated nearly $100,000.

Among the witnesses who took the stand for the prosecution Friday were Mrs. C. L. Mobley, of Johnston, S. C.; Franklin Tyler, of Florida; H. C. Hightower, H. N. Turner and W. L. Glass, of McDonough, Ga.; J. P. McDavid and C. W. McDavid, of Pelzer, S. C.; and B. C. Morgan, of Carrollton, Ga.

The stockholders testified to purchasing stock in amounts ranging from $100 to $6,000.

MRS. WHITWORTH DIES AT LAWRENCEVILLE

Lawrenceville, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—Mrs. Martha Stevens Whitworth, age 83, died at the home of her son, Judge R. B. Whitworth, on South Clayton street, this morning at 5 o'clock. She was the widow of the late James O. Whitworth, a federal veteran, and had lived in the county nearly all of her life.

She is survived by four sons, Judge R. B. Whitworth and I. B. Whitworth, of Lawrenceville; Richard Whitworth, of Nashville, Tenn.; George W. Whitworth, of Texas; one daughter, Mrs. J. B. Watson, also of Texas, and a brother, J. M. Stevens, of Loganville.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Baptist church. The services will be in charge of Rev. J. F. Singleton and Rev. H. H. Jones. Interment will be at New cemetery.

Death Is Final Tragedy of Babe No One Wanted

Nameless Infant Left at the Grady by Young Girl Is Dead.

Without the care of a mother's arms, unclaimed and unknown, the little abandoned baby died early Friday morning at the Grady hospital.

And thus closes one of the most tragic chapters of baby abandonment ever recorded in Atlanta.

The baby was brought to Atlanta three weeks ago by a pretty 16-year-old girl, who gave her name as Mildred Ford, of Columbus, Ga. She told the police that the baby was left in her charge by a stranger on the train while she was going home from Milledgeville, where she was a student at G. N. L. C. The police left the infant in charge of the nurses at the Grady.

There it was given the name of "Claude Boland" in courtesy to Dr. Frank Boland.

Miss Ford has not since been seen or heard from. The police in Columbus can find no trace of her, and the college authorities at Milledgeville deny that any student by that name was ever enrolled.

But the smiling baby displayed no signs of anxiety and was happy in its new found home, until three days ago it became ill, and died on Friday.

There are no known relatives. T. C. Basemore & Sons have been given charge of the simple burial of the unwanted dead.

Asks Prado Paving Bids.

New bids for paving The Prado, a street in the eighth ward, were called for Friday afternoon by the city streets committee. Mayor Key vetoed a recent contract for the paving, let to the McDougald Construction company, after a rival contractor had contracted the bid, claiming his was lower.

Coco-Cola President Denies Government Plans Suit

Howard Candler Attributes Rumor of $7,000,000 Action to Attempted Bear Raid on Market.

BY WALTER CHAMBERS, Financial Editor, The Constitution.

Efforts to drive down the price of Coca-Cola stock on the New York stock exchange yesterday through circulation of reports that the government is contemplating a suit of $7,000,000 against the Coca-Cola Company of Delaware, were ascribed to an attempted bear raid by C. Howard Candler, president of the company, last night.

Early in the day, when the report was first circulated, Mr. Candler wired to New York to the effect that the action of the government concerned less than $500,000 and was for taxes alleged to be due on the 1919 business of the company, at that time incorporated in Georgia.

"There is absolutely nothing to the alleged suit for $7,000,000," Mr. Candler said. "And the Delaware corporation is not liable for any of the charges claimed by the government, it having been stated specifically in the contract of purchase by the Delaware corporation that the Georgia corporation would assume federal taxes incident to the purchase."

"The Coca-Cola company, a Delaware corporation, purchased the assets of the Coca-Cola company, a Georgia concern. This was a bona fide purchase. In the contract of purchase it was stipulated that all federal taxes were to be paid by the Georgia corporation. The government is contending that the Georgia corporation made a profit on the sale."

"The Delaware corporation, under the law, could not be made liable, being a bona fide purchaser and it having been stipulated in regard to federal taxes. The government has not filed any suit and has not made a demand on the Delaware corporation. The only tax question up in regard to the Delaware corporation is in regard to an item as to whether it should be charged to expense or to investment of capital and involves less than $500,000. The Delaware corporation is not contemplating issuing new securities and has over $4,000,000 in the bank and no bills payable."

GERMAN CABINET TO BE SELECTED BY WILHELM CUNO

Berlin, November 17.—Wilhelm Cuno, newly designated German chancellor, planned to begin the work of selecting a ministry upon his return today from Hamburg where he went to adjust affairs in connection with his position as director general of the Hamburg American Steamship line.

Herr Cuno proposed to organize a cabinet "of work," comprising members of the middle and socialist parties, and was apparently reassured by his advance survey of the situation yesterday, in which he consulted with the various party leaders.

It is not believed the cabinet can be definitely constituted before Monday.

Young Woman Clings to Rails Of Train Track

Refuses to Leave Dangerous Idling Place Until Police Come.

Mrs. Bessie Jensen, 21, of Pulliam street, whose unusual strength in her hands and arms has several times required four of the strongest members of the Atlanta police force to tear her from objects she might grab, again demonstrated this remarkable power Friday afternoon to the discomfiture of a corps of railroad workmen and spectators when she fastened herself down to the tracks of the Central of Georgia railway at the Fair street crossing.

This exhibition of her strength resulted in her arrest by Call Officers J. H. Mashburn and M. C. Williams, who were called from police barracks to aid in breaking her away from the rails before possible injury from passing trains.

A charge of "idling and loitering" was docketed against her at police barracks. An entry upon the card also shows that the officers suspected her of being mentally deranged. Officer Mashburn stated she had been jailed more than a dozen times for queer actions and he was of the opinion that her mind wandered at times. About two hours after her arrest by the officers, she was turned over to her mother by Mrs. Mamie Heard, matron at police station. Mrs. Heard stated that Mrs. Jensen was extremely nervous, and during her confinement at the barracks several times previous to Friday had become hysterical and clenched the bars so fiercely that it required the help of four officers to make her release her hold.

BRITAIN ADDRESSES TECH COMMERCE MEN

Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, last night addressed the commerce graduates on the need for young men who will accomplish the tasks given them to perform. Dr. Brittain reviewed the history of the school of commerce, telling of its inception in 1912, when it was exclusively a night school; and of the day classes started in the fall of 1916, until now the commerce school is the largest department of Tech, with more than 825 students.

Dean J. M. Watters and W. S. Kell, first dean and originator of the commerce school, made brief talks on the future of commercial education in Georgia.

Charles Chalmers, of the New York Life Insurance company, class of 1916, was elected vice president of the Commerce Alumni association. Other officers will be elected at the spring meeting. The incumbents are Frank C. Johnson, of Greensboro, N. C., president, and R. M. McFarland, Jr., of Atlanta, secretary.

which begins Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Services will be held every evening during the revival at 7:30. No morning services will be held except on Sundays. A special musical has been prepared by members of the church and a large attendance is expected.

EFFICIENCY WAR COUNCIL PLANNED

General John J. Pershing Discusses National Defense Plans at Meeting in New York.

New York, November 17.—National defense plans of the war department of the entire resources of the country under "an efficiency council or board of control," General Pershing announced here tonight, speaking before the Merchants' Association of New York.

"According to these plans," General Pershing said, "the industrial and manufacturing institutions, agriculture and transportation would be under government control, while the personnel pertaining to all of them would be mustered into the service as are those that are called to the colors. An efficiency council, or board of control, conforming to our experience in the war, would then be placed in charge of all resources to be adopted should soon be in such tangible form that the personnel could be selected and organized in readiness to take up their duties when needed."

SHIP SUBSIDY GAG PLAN ABANDONED

House Administration Leaders Decide to Allow Introduction of Amendments From Floor.

Washington, November 17.—House administration leaders, recognizing the constant increase in opposition to the ship subsidy bill, have decided that the imposition of a gag rule would destroy whatever chance of passage the measure may still have. Therefore, at a conference between Speaker Gillett, Floor Leader McMillan, Chairman Campbell, of the rules committee, and members of the republican steering committee, Friday, it was decided to submit the bill for consideration under a special rule which will permit of introducing amendments from the floor.

Although friends of the subsidy are apprehensive that this procedure will encourage the introduction of countless amendments designed to nullify the measure, at the same time, they feel that in adopting this strategy they may gain a number of recruits—possibly a majority.

Campbell feels that the rule, to be submitted to the house next Wednesday, will be acceptable and that general debate will start Thursday and run through Saturday. The first three days of the following week, he said, will be devoted to discussion of amendments. He predicts that a final vote on the bill should come November 23.

Chairman Tasker, of the shipping board, meanwhile has "grown sick and tired" of the misrepresentation of those who, clinging to the fetishes and prejudices of the past, ignore the situation as it is; or others, who through foreign influence or for seeming political advantage or through demagogic chicanery, misrepresent the facts.

It is time, he believes, "that the American people, whether any group of individuals like it or not, be told forcibly the truth—that by the keeping alive of the picture of subsidy as it related to pre-war conditions, when the government neither owned nor operated ships, the people are being cheated into a tax burden from which the only relief in sight is to make possible private ownership and sale of the ships into private hands."

WOMEN PLANNING TO MAKE MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE HARD

Indianapolis, Ind., November 17.—Indiana women, through their own representatives in the state government, are seeking to make both marriage and divorce more difficult by law.

A bill designed to accomplish this has been prepared by Mrs. Edward Franklin White, deputy attorney general, and will be introduced in the January session of the state legislature by Miss Elizabeth Ratner, the assembly's only woman member. Later, the women hope, the bill may be adopted as a nation-wide standard.

Applicants for marriage licenses must be free from contagious disease and of the same color, under the law proposed.

No person could be married in the state except under a license issued in the county of residence, and application for the license must be made to the county clerk at least two weeks before the ceremony.

Grounds for divorce would include adultery, cruel and inhuman treatment, abandonment or failure to provide for a period of a year or more, incurable insanity, or conviction of a crime calling for a penalty of five years or more imprisonment.

THEATERS : MOVIES

Atlanta Theatre—Saturday (Matinee Saturday), Lasses White Minstrels.

Fourth Theatre—All week, Fourth Play in "The Broken Wing."

Lyric Theatre (Keith vaudeville)—See advertising for program.

Loew's Grand (vaudeville and pictures)—See advertising for program.

Howard Theatre—All week, Rudolph Valentino in "The Young Rajah," and other screen features.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Lyric.)

In "The Sultan's Harem," a comedy playlet, every member of the cast at the Lyric took part the second half of this week. Laughter lasted throughout the act. Ben Marks and Dolly Wilson in an eccentric comedy act of repartee, tricks and funny gestures were enthusiastically applauded.

George Kalaluh's Hawaiian troupe in native songs, with Miss Ekkele as the hula dancer, were unusually good. Grace Nelson, American prima donna, came in for her share of applause in popular songs and an operatic selection.

Phil Davis, blackface comedian, in several humorous songs and stories is good.

The Bellboys, a unique juggling act, were very amusing.

Virginia Pearson.

(At Loew's Grand.)

In order to accommodate those expecting to see Miss Virginia Pearson, the famous screen vampire, who is making a personal appearance at Loew's Grand theatre, the management announces that tonight's performance for today and tonight, starting hours being at 2, 4, 7, and 9 p. m. Miss Pearson concludes her Atlanta engagement with tonight's performance. She is also seen on the screen in her latest photoplay success, "Wildness of Youth," in which she has one of the most difficult parts of her screen career. Her personal appearance is in addition to the regular vaudeville and photoplay program.

Jimmy (Sax) Duffy, in songs, stories and saxophone selections, is an excellent entertainer. His stories are chock full of humor, his songs are tuneful and his all his saxophone playing stamps him as an artist of unusual versatility. Doris Hardy and Lila O'Neil have a splendid comedy farce playlet called "Speaking of Men," and the other acts are fully up to the Loew standard.

Last of Sultans Quits His Harem And Takes Flight

Decides Life Is Far Better Than Pretty Women, and Flees From Kemalists.

May Demand Sultan.

Constantinople, November 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—It is reported here that the Angora government will make formal representations to Great Britain for the return of the sultan to the Kemalists, pointing out that only the great national assembly of Turkey has authority to direct the sultan's movements and declaring that he must face trial as ordered by the government.

Constantinople, November 17.—The last of the sultans—Mohammed VI.—has fled from Constantinople in a British warship, fearful that the enraged Turkish nationalists headed by Mustafa Kemal would take his life.

The flight of the sultan under the protection of the British followed receipt of word from Angora, the seat of the Kemalists government, that the national assembly had decided to place Mohammed on trial.

In contrast to the trials of the "war guilty" in Germany, the sultan is classed as one of the "peace guilty" in Turkey. At the door of the Sultan's Palace is placed the charges that he and his ministers were responsible for acquiescence in the treaty of Sevres at the end of the world war, which was an ignominious peace for Turkey, banishing her from Europe.

Leaves Harem Behind.

Mohammed, who left his harem behind in the ramshackle palace where he has lived in comparative poverty as the "guest" of the allies since the end of the war, was accompanied in his flight by his son, Prince Erligul Effendi, and a few faithful retainers. They stole into an auto and were taken to the British battleship Malaya.

The sultan, who has steadfastly stated he would not relinquish his office even in face of the action of the Turkish assembly in abolishing the sultanate, said as he was received by Admiral Brock, of the British navy: "I am not abdicating but am merely seeking refuge."

It was stated he will receive instructions from the British after he arrives at Malta, his destination.

Mohammed has every reason to fear for his life. In the last several centuries not many of the sultans, who in addition to being the rulers of the Turkish empire have been the supreme caliphs of the Mohammedan church, have died natural deaths. Many have been assassinated by political conspirators.

The last sultan to meet a violent death was Abdul Hamid, "the butcher," who is credited with having massacred more Christians than any of his line.

Hamid's murder came in 1909 shortly after the young Turk revolution, which has culminated in the nationalists under Mustafa Kemal hammering themselves back into Europe and reaching a higher pinnacle of power than at any other time in history.

No Voice in Affairs.

The fleeing caliph has had practically no voice in the affairs of his country since 1918 when he was exiled to Constantinople, the protectorate of the allies. It was then that the Turkish nationalists repudiated him and moved the seat of the government to Angora, on the plains of Anatolia.

One of Kemal's first utterances after he drove the Greeks into the sea recently was that the "last government would abolish the sultanate and his success may be judged by the flight of Mohammed, on Friday.

The sultan was the last relic of the Ottoman empire, which has been decadent for years. In its place has arisen the government of the grand national assembly at Angora.

Creates Intense Interest.

London, November 17.—News of the departure of the sultan under British protection created the most intense interest in official circles today, which anxiously awaited the effect it might have on the Moslem populations of India and other British domains.

Official London, it is learned authoritatively, is none too sure that the sultan's action will be approved by the Moslems generally. This uncertainty is created by the fact that several protests have been lodged by Indian Moslems against the reported establishment of a British guard at the sultan's palace to protect him. The protesters contended that this action constituted an infringement of their rights of self-determination in what they consider to be purely a Moslem question.

Strangely enough, it was said, there have been no expressions of commendation to offset these protests. Moreover, it was believed that nationalists who might possibly be angered by any offer of resistance to the British program at Lausanne than had been anticipated.

DeKalb May Impose Special Tax to Pay Off Its Indebtedness

A special tax to pay off outstanding indebtedness in DeKalb county is foreseen in the ruling handed down Friday by the Georgia supreme court in affirming the lower courts with regard to the legality of the bond issue. The higher court voted three to two on the case which, under the law, affirms the lower court.

Judge Hutcheson, of the Stone Mountain circuit of the superior court, refused to issue a writ of mandamus to compel the payment of interest on bonds held by George W. Furman & Co. which the latter sought, which resulted in the decision being carried to the supreme court. The latter upheld Judge Hutcheson's decision.

LEATHER AND SHOE MEN TO MEET HERE

Ware Plans Early Start in Diversified Farming Program

Waycross, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—Ware county members of the Georgia association, after mapping out a definite program of diversified farming for the farmers of Ware county, lost no time in starting actual experiment with the program to prove to doubtful farmers that it is practical.

Believing that the best way to learn is by actual experiment, J. T. Hopkins, W. N. Smith, Dan Lott and W. D. O'Quinn have agreed to be four of twenty men to finance the bringing of six good grade cows each into Ware county. This would mean that one hundred and twenty good cows would be introduced into the county.

PRETTY WOMAN CHARGES BETRAYAL

alleged tendencies for long auto rides, and tea room luncheons, he declared she was possessed with an uncontrollable temper, and she on the slightest provocation would strike and maul him. He stated too, that on various occasions after encounters with his wife he was obliged to seek the services of a surgeon.

Tells of Romance. Mrs. Regar said she was firm in her determination to take such action as will vindicate herself, and to prove that the "humiliating" charges made by Regar are groundless.

"When the annulment proceedings are concluded," she said, "I will start suit for divorce on my own terms."

In her statement Friday Mrs. Regar told of the abbreviated engagement while she was a freshman in the Augusta high school, of the hasty pre-arrangements for their elopement on Christmas day, 1917, the honeymoon, the wild faraway party in New York when Regar, who was a second lieutenant in the Pennsylvania National Guard unit, settled for France.

She told of the reassuring letters he wrote her from France, revealing a portion of the contents of a letter signed by his name, dated December 22, 1918, in which it was stated: "I am on my good behavior, and it is good I am, for Laurens is full of French girls, who are only too glad to go with the American officers. But I am keeping straight for you, dear, and you can never appreciate the temptations I have had to withstand. It's hard work I can tell you, but I can do it."

"As a bride of less than a year," she said at this point, "I was thrilled when I read those lines, but now, after other letters I have read—well, it isn't quite so thrilling."

"It was no effort to believe him then, and just fifteen years ago, he told a fib to the license clerk in Augusta when he said I was seventeen—but could anyone believe him now after reading these notes?"

Mrs. Regar said there had been numerous quarrels, but there were in a measure patched up and overlooked, temporary armistices being effected from time to time.

A party at the home of some friends in Philadelphia on April 9, 1922, described by Mrs. Regar as "a debauchery" was "the last straw that broke the camel's back."

"It was terribly wild," the pretty divorcee said. "No one thought of drinking anything less potent than whisky and soda, or gin fizzes. Regardless of being accused of being a joy killer and a creep hanger, I managed to get through the evening without imbibing the ever-flowing bowl too freely. But my husband—he was the life of the party. He tried to drink it all."

"In the wee small hours of the morning, when the party broke up because there was nothing more to drink, we started home. We were accompanied by some bosom friends of my husband."

Fight in Auto.

"It was our car, and Gordon inacted on driving, although he could scarcely walk, he was so thoroughly muddled. He lost his way, and when Mrs. Mendenhall tried to direct back to the Chase home, he thought it was more arguing with him and in a fit of drunken anger struck me squarely between the eyes with his fist. I retaliated; naturally I would, who wouldn't? and I managed to get a good, square lick in. We tumbled about the car, the Mendenhalls all while trying to separate us. I ruined a perfectly stunning dress, and his battle finally subsided. We both had black eyes, but he didn't mention mine when he testified before the master in chancery at the divorce hearing."

Arriving home, Mrs. Regar said she called her aunt, who was staying at the Partridge inn in Augusta, over long distance telephone. She related the incident she said, her aunt promising to come to Norristown at once to bring her back to Georgia.

"Before leaving for the south, my husband and I talked over the divorce proceedings. He pleaded with me to let him stay at the party, that he might retain the shreds of respectability that still clung to him after what had happened. He told me that if I would go to Atlanta he would file the charges, making the simple statement that I had been cruel to him."

Leaves for Home. "It meant but little to me what Norristown thought of the affair, so thinking he would quietly arrange everything and he would be granted the decree with no attending notoriety, I left for the south."

That was April 13, 1922, just three days after the party at the Chase home. No communication passed between us other than those that passed between our attorneys.

Replying to the charges made by Regar to the effect that his former wife "had acquired the habit of smoking cigarettes and drinking liquor," Mrs. Regar said that "he had to smoke cigarettes and drink the liquor he bought for me, and he was not to appear alone and sophisticated, but in doing so I did more than he was able to do, and that was when my aunt came to Norristown, he spoke so slightly of at the divorce hearing."

"In the court action that is to follow," she added, her pretty chin set firmly, "I will show that wherever there was a rupture in our domestic tranquility there was more than a provocation. I will conclusively prove that he grossly misrepresented facts."

Hurled Knife at Him.

"He charges me with throwing a knife at him. I did; but I hurled the blade at him only when in my presence he kissed a girl during the progress of a party at a Chinese restaurant in the Philadelphia theater district."

"He says, too, that his finger was cut in an argument over a picture of myself we were hanging in my room while we were living at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Regar, at Norristown. We were about to hang the picture where he said a photograph of his former sweetheart used to be. 'Gee, she was some square-jawed girl,' he told me, 'and to think your picture is going to be hung in her place.' I snatched the picture from him, and hurled it to the floor, then stooped to pick it up again. The glass on the frame had shattered and as he dove for the picture at the same time I did, he cut his finger on a piece of glass. He was so careful not to tell all the facts in the stories he alluded to."

Mrs. Regar denied she had ever taken long automobile rides with other men as her husband charged. "Perhaps the incidents he refers to," she said, "were those when I would give some of his gentleman friends a lift downtown."

Mrs. Regar said she would start legal action as soon as advisable, and declared her intention of going back to Norristown, and if necessary, to promote the interests of her case.

tions. The request was made during a hearing by the reparations commission on wood deliveries for next year. The German delegates said Germany would be unable to deliver more than 1,440,000 cubic meters of the between five million and six million cubic meters demanded of it. The request was taken under consideration, but it is expected it will be refused.

An example of what the fall in the value of the mark has done in Germany was given by German experts, who testified that the allied demands would cost Germany 740,000,000,000 paper marks at the present rate of exchange, whereas a German offer made last July of nearly two-thirds of the amount of wood demanded by the allies would have cost 150,000,000,000 paper marks.

straight repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

The first move will be for light wine and beer, to be offered in the form of an amendment to the Volstead act. Its proponents will try immediately to tie this with some scheme for raising expenditures necessary under the bonus, which is coming to a close, and which the president will oppose. Wets will center their efforts in that direction.

Move From Drys.

The second move will come from the drys, who will attempt to force the senate to pass a measure already approved by the house providing for the deportation of aliens coming to the United States.

The third consists of dry attempts to have legislation passed putting civil service with the prohibition law.

AMERICAN-HELLENIC Association Elects Temporary Officers

New candidates were initiated and temporary officers appointed at a meeting of the American Hellenic Educational Progressive association at the Red Men's Wigwam Thursday night.

The officers appointed to serve Atlanta lodge, No. 1, until the election in December are Dr. F. L. Belyou, president; Nicholas Regas, vice president; Harry Angelopoulos, secretary; George Brown, treasurer, and Jerry Vals, William Jones, and Christ Calas, governors.

J. O. Woods, state representative-elect, spoke on various phases of the political situation. "He was warmly received."

Willing to Seat Her.

There were said to be no decisive precedents, particularly in the case of Mrs. Felton. Republican leaders have intimated that they would not interpose technical objection to Mrs. Felton taking her seat and that although they regard the issue as a question, not of sex, but of law, they believe she ought to be seated, if she should present her credentials before Judge George presents his.

Another angle in the case, according to the Associated Press, is that from Iowa, where Senator-elect Brookhart was chosen November 7 to succeed Senator Rawson. The canvass of returns is not yet completed and Mr. Brookhart is said will not be in Washington at the convening of the special session.

Governor Hardwick, who has been spending several days in New York in his wire stated that he would convene the board of canvassers consisting of the governor, the secretary of state and the comptroller general, immediately upon his arrival so as to issue Judge George's commission at once.

Secretary of State McLenon, who announced several days ago that he would not sign the commission until it bore the personal signature of the governor, had originally planned to call the canvass board together Friday and certify the returns. After receiving the governor's wire, Mr. McLenon stated that he would await the arrival of the governor before taking this action.

DRASTIC NON-PARKING PROPOSALS CRITICISED

Motor Club Plan Would "Eliminate, Not Regulate," Says Smith.

The drastic non-parking regulations proposed by W. G. Peoples of the Atlanta Motor club "would eliminate instead of regulate" traffic, according to John E. Smith, chairman of the traffic committee of the Atlanta Automobile association.

Mr. Smith's opposition to the non-parking regulations proposed by the motor club was unanimously approved at a recent membership meeting of the association, representing more than 120 Atlanta business houses.

Mr. Smith sent the following communication to The Constitution: "The statement of W. G. Peoples, Jr., secretary Atlanta Motor club, in regard to traffic regulations calls for reply. Many have tried to regulate traffic in Atlanta, yet, try as they might, the congestion has increased as it always will with the growth of our city, until we provide more arteries. A plan has been presented by the motor club with a very fine map drawn by the draftsman of the street car company.

"The effect of this plan would be not to regulate traffic but to eliminate much automobile traffic. The original plan as offered made over one-half of the downtown area non-parking.

"The rights of the merchant and the rights of our citizens who wish to use the streets is paramount to the selfish interests of any corporation, association or club. It is a significant fact that not one word has been said by the 'non-parkers' regarding the city planning commission's suggestions as made by Mr. Whitten, that will really improve traffic conditions.

"Those of us who favor parking limited for one hour have shown by many tests that parking does not delay traffic between 9 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. and we agree there should be no parking after 4:30 o'clock during the rush hours. Then why legislate the automobile owner off the streets who wishes to transact business with our doctors, merchants, doctors, lawyers and others?"

New Archbishop Coming to America As Apostolic Delegate
Baltimore, Md., November 17.—Announcement will be in tomorrow's issue of The Baltimore Catholic Review of the appointment of Archbishop Peter Fumasoni-Biondi as apostolic delegate to the United States. Archbishop Fumasoni-Biondi will succeed Archbishop Bonzano for ten years apostolic delegate to the United States. Archbishop Bonzano will sail from New York tomorrow on his way home to receive the appointment of the apostolic delegate to the United States. The official announcement of the appointment of Archbishop Fumasoni-Biondi will be made in a few days, it is said.

The new apostolic delegate is a native of Rome. He was educated for the priesthood in Rome, was ordained there and was consecrated bishop. He has served at the Vatican a number of years. He was apostolic delegate to India in 1916 and was appointed first as apostolic delegate to Japan in 1919.

The new apostolic delegate was born in Rome, September 4, 1872.

Auto of Thieves Wrecked in Race With Policemen
Their plunder-laden automobile wrecked near midnight Friday after a race and running gun fight with motorcycle officers, an unidentified white man and negro leaped from the wreckage, apparently unhurt, and escaped in the darkness.

The thieves' speeding car was first sighted by the officers on Highland avenue between Ponce de Leon and North avenue. They ordered the pair to stop, and instead the driver of the car increased his speed.

When the automobile reached Bonaventure and North avenues, with the officers a few hundred yards in the rear, it swerved sharply, and crashed into a tree. At the time of the accident the car was partially under control, the officer said, owing to a bad curve.

The two officers quit their machines and started to chase their quarry afoot, the officers firing their pistols as they ran. The fugitives fired back. They were outdistanced and returned to the wrecked car. They found a large sack full of auto meters, and other automobile accessories. The officers were C. H. Whitley and H. D. Lawson.

Men Who Will Direct Bottlers' Activities

The new big bosses in the bottlers' business, elected at the convention of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages in Atlanta this week, are as follows: Left to right—Junior Owens, of Washington, D. C., secretary; Sidney W. Lee, of Birmingham, president; C. V. Rainwater, of Atlanta, retiring president; James V. Verner, Jr., of Detroit, Mich., member of the executive board; W. T. Reeves, of Greenville, Tex., member of the executive board; H. J. McLaughlin, of Boston, Mass., member of the executive board; W. B. Hatfield, of Brooklyn, N. Y., member of the executive board; A. B. Freeman, of New Orleans, La., member of the executive board.

Although the fourth annual convention of American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages ended Friday, leaders declare that its success and influence will be felt for many years.

Coinciding with the ending of the convention came the announcement that the annual one-day convention of the Whistle, company, of Chicago, will be held Saturday at the Ansley hotel and will begin at 10:30 o'clock. It is the annual custom of this company to hold a convention of the day following the conclusion of the national bottlers' meeting. This convention, while of particular interest to "Whistle" representatives, will be of general interest to all bottlers and a great many will remain over for this meeting.

Included in the program for the "Whistle" meeting is a business meeting, an executive session of officials, general get-together features and last, but by no means less interesting, officials say, comedy production entitled "The Big Idea." This "merchandising comedy" will include thirty well-known "Whistle" dealers and will have all the jokes, good songs, comedy sketches and humorous features that the ordinary minstrel affords.

Lee Is President.
The concluding session of the national association on Friday afternoon saw the election of national officers. Sidney W. Lee, of Birmingham, was elected president; C. B. Chesterman, of Sioux City, Iowa, vice president, and I. M. Oberfelder, of Baltimore, was selected as treasurer.

The executive board also determines the "convention city" for each succeeding year, and by a motion in Friday's meeting, the selection of the 1933 convention city was referred to the board for action. This action is necessary, officials state, because the conventions have grown to such proportions that probable sites have to be carefully looked over in order that the space necessary for the exposition and convention is of sufficient area.

The final business session was marked by an address by Anderson Pace, of the Tin Decorating company, of Baltimore. He addressed himself to the sales features, the importance of "selling the trade," and incidentally touched upon the matter of uniform quality of soft drinks.

His address was followed by a general discussion and many interesting suggestions for national and state legislation to regulate the industry, the need of a code of ethics and the standardization of quality, were made.

Compliment Rainwater.
Just before adjournment, the retiring president, Charles V. Rainwater, of Atlanta, was presented with a beautiful silver teapot by George C. Biggins, speaking for the executive board. The speaker extolled the many excellent qualities of the retiring president. Mr. Rainwater was so overwhelmed that he could barely express his appreciation. The great audience cheered him as he tried to choke back the tears which betrayed the appreciation which he was "too full to say," as he expressed it.

At 1:30 o'clock Friday the delegates and visitors were guests of the White Motor company at a barbecue at their place on North Boulevard. Transportation was provided from the Auditorium-Armory and several hundred attended.

At 7:30 o'clock Friday evening a special concert and a radio program in Taft hall was offered, and at 8 o'clock the delegates and visitors were guests of the Bottlers' Boosters of America. The boosters' organization, composed of live-wire salesmen and representatives of the bottling industry, went through the category of fun and wholesome amusement in their entertainment. This special entertainment by the boosters is a novel departure from the ordinary, comedy and mirthmaking and is an annual affair which bottlers and exposition officials look forward to with little interest.

Exposition Open.
Saturday is the last day of the exposition of carbonated beverages which has held through the entire week at the Auditorium-Armory. Its opening preceded the formal opening of the convention of bottlers by two days and post-dates the convention one day. It was pronounced by prominent visitors to the convention as the biggest feature of its kind ever attempted and brought together the greatest array of bottling machinery and bottling supplies that was ever assembled. It has been a splendid success, financially and otherwise, and has held the center of interest in the bottling world for the past week.

Several hundred bottlers are remaining over today for the final day of the exposition and to attend the football game between Georgia Tech and North Carolina.

Boosters Re-elect Martin.

MISSING GIRL THOUGHT WEDDED, PARENTS STATE
Margaret McDaniel, missing 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. McDaniel, 72 Woodward avenue, is married, according to the belief of her father, who, it is said, received word from friends that the girl was married in Chattanooga recently.

The parents also stated that one of Margaret's friends had received a postal card from the Tennessee city signed "Mrs. Hill." An entry on the Chattanooga marriage docket is said to have disclosed the names of "Barley Hill, Jr., and Miss Margaret McDaniel."

The girl left home November 10 when her parents, it is said, refused her the privilege of receiving boy callers or of going to motion picture shows on school nights. She had been a student at Commercial High school.

Methodists to Meet.
Macon, Ga., November 17.—Two thousand Methodists of Georgia are expected to attend a two-day convention here on evangelism and home mission January 9 and 10. Among the speakers are Dr. Charles L. Goodell, of New York; Dr. A. W. Taylor, of Indianapolis; Bishop Warren A. Candler, of Atlanta; Bishop W. F. McMurtry, of St. Louis; Dr. W. A. Shelton, of Atlanta; Dr. L. G. Russell, of Nashville, Tenn., and Dr. G. L. Morelock.

Policy of Frankness.
Rome, November 17.—Premier Mussolini, after having inaugurated the policy of frankness in dealing with his parliament, wishes to speak with equal frankness to the representatives of England and France, with whom he will meet in Lausanne Monday. It was stated in circles close to the premier today.

He feels that the world is tired of empty diplomatic hypotheses, the atmosphere of suspicion, pin pricks and

Will the Radicals Control the New Congress?

A Republican Congressional majority, so large as to be unwieldy, has been cut to a margin so small that in both Houses Republican legislation will be at the mercy of a handful of insurgents of doubtful party regularity.

While the Republicans sustained losses in the election, the Milwaukee Journal (Ind.) can not see that the Democrats made any conclusive gains. Indeed, it is forced to conclude that if one looks for the real gains he finds them going to the radicals. The New York Sun notes that "Voters with radical sympathies have lined up with the radical candidates almost as generally as they might have if there had existed a great radical party. It has happened in the East and in the West. The radicalism that has come into evidence in this election exceeds sectional bounds. It has eaten into the very fiber of both the old parties."

Do not fail to read in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week the summary of opinion upon this very interesting development that has come out of the election. There are a host of other important news-features in THE DIGEST this week which will have more than an ordinary appeal. Among them are:

Team's Fight Tigers' Only Hope

Today's Grid Games Discussed

BY WALTER CAMP

New York, November 17.—The Yale-Princeton football series is a classic which has continued almost unbrokenly for over 40 years. There has always been the keenest kind of rivalry but it has been friendly rivalry with a fair field and no favor. Yale probably will go into the contest Saturday a slight favorite. But just when you think a Princeton team is done—look out. As Kipling says: "They're all 'ot and and danger when alive and they're generally ashumen' when they're dead."

The Princeton team of 1919 won the great credit which came to it. After what looked like a disastrous season at the half way point, the team braced and forced its way to the front. This year's team has absorbed that fighting spirit—that never say die, come back for more at you which is in the very Princeton soil, itself, stamped and trodden into the turf by the gridiron heroes of the past.

The writer can see that host advancing through the mists of time—Earl Dodge, McNair, Bland Ballard, "Butch" Bryan, all great leaders; "Snake" Ames, the slippery; Hector Cowan, a great tackle; "Tillie" Lamar, Alex Moffat, the two-footed kicker; Tracy Harris, now fat and round; the Riggs and the Wheelers, giants all; and the Post, who "sailed down the Broad river of life aflame."

"Biffy" Lea, Garry Cochran, Bill Church, Phil Kling, "Doc" Hildebrand, the Priest, who couldn't be told apart; Bill Edwards, "He doth beside the world; Park Davis, greatest of statisticians; the Harlans, Ad Kelly, Barkers, Dewitt, Dillon, Tybet, Pendleton, Reek, McGraw, Scrubbing, Trimble and a host of others all making history and breathing into the players of today the old fighting spirit. It is a grand heritage and it passes on from generation to generation.

Michigan Should Win.
Unless Wisconsin braces up considerably as compared with the way the team played last Saturday, Michigan should defeat the Madison aggregation decisively and easily. Michigan has two great players in Kipke in the backfield, and Kirk, the star in the line, while not the equal of Kirk, is good. Mairhead at tackle is a good lineman and Hofeld, of Wisconsin, is a powerful guard. Wisconsin has rather the better of it with Barr at quarter, but Michigan has the better center in Blott. In the backfield, Williams, of Wisconsin, is a strong line plunger but is not so versatile as Kipke.

Will Chicago find trouble with Illinois as others have done? Stagg's team ought to win but Illinois has a few favorites in the past and seems to enjoy doing it. Notre Dame should defeat Butler although colleges outside the conference like Butler and Washburn have been playing good football this year.

Syracuse, if improvement is continued, should have the advantage over Colgate but the Colgate attack as shown in the Princeton game will give Syracuse plenty to handle. Washington and Jefferson should be stronger than Pittsburg but will be hampered by the absence of Captain Holleran. Penn State should prove victors over Pennsylvania.

In the south Centre and Auburn should provide a good contest with odds favoring the former. Vanderbilt and Georgia also should be a well contested match. Washington will have a good battle in the Georgetown-Rockwell meeting, and Lexington will see interesting football when Kentucky meets Alabama.

See and the University of the South will battle hard at Chattanooga. California should defeat Nevada in the Pacific coast conference and Stanford should come through against Washington at Palo Alto. West Virginia ought to defeat Virginia, especially if the former can control the game properly for the final game with Washington and Jefferson. Bates probably will be easy for the army.

Few Will Be Brave Enough to Nominat
The Tigers for the laurels. Frankly, I am not, but the score isn't going to be so one-sided at that. Most of the experts see three touchdowns margin to favor Centre, with Auburn figuring in some manner for a touchdown.

Will Be Close.
We like Centre and believe one touchdown will be the difference, with the Tiger not registering a marker—7 to 0. Now laugh!

There is a chance for a grand but on that prediction. The Colonels are capable of inventing a larger figure, but you must remember that Auburn succeeded in stopping an admittedly strong attack launched by the Bulldogs at Columbus. She might slow up a stronger one today.

An even closer game will find the Bulldogs and Vanderbilt in combat at Athens. Here's one that is causing the boys trouble. Vanderbilt has Reece to run around the Georgia flanks and there is Froggy Meiers for duty at ramming the line.

Will Stop Runners.
But the Bulldog stopped Shirley and Shirling through clever work of the flank combination arranged by Staggman, and Georgia's forward spotted Ford's best line bucking. Reece and Meiers will have to be very, very good to succeed where the Tiger failed.

The air is there, you say, and so it is. Vanderbilt can gain at this business. She did it against Tennessee. She will probably do so Saturday. In fact, Vanderbilt's one touchdown will be scored in this manner, but it won't prove enough.

The Bulldog figures to win, and Dick Mulvihill's too that registered Georgia's three points against Auburn man, and Georgia's forward spotted Ford's best line bucking. Reece and Meiers will have to be very, very good to succeed where the Tiger failed.

A mild surprise will be created at Grant field this afternoon when North Carolina Polytechnic in the Yellow Jackets, but that's going to be the only shock, for Georgia Tech is certain to win, and without showing much of her heavy artillery.

It will be some time before
Thanksgiving day, and varsity players need the work today. They will be in action long enough.

At East Lake Meet.
The feminine golfers of the East Lake golf course are very enthusiastic and a galaxy of Atlanta's best golfers will qualify in the Constitution's tournament Monday. Mrs. Thomas B. Paine, chairman of the handicaps committee for the Atlanta Women's Golf association, will arrange the handicaps for those that have not been handicapped, and we guarantee the handicaps will be just as liberal as in any of the tournaments The Constitution has promoted.

Mrs. T. T. Williams and Miss Mac
O'Brien, two of East Lake's popular golfers, will not be able to participate in this tournament next week. They are leaving for New York city Sunday, and will be absent for a week or ten days.

The mixed Scotch foursome tournament Ansel Park will give Tuesday, November 21, is creating quite a lot of enthusiasm among the masculine golfers of this club. Fourteen have already registered to play, and we expect the number to reach 30 within the next few days. The White Provision company has generously donated a corned ham as one of the prizes to be played for in this mixed Scotch foursome.

The feminine golfers of Ansel
Park have entered the ringer contest that is being promoted by the Atlanta Women's Golf association. Seven of the fair golfers have already registered, and at least 15 will enter the contest.

Mrs. Jesse T. Daniel is leading with four ringers. Mrs. Clarence Bradley is second with two ringers, and each of the following golfers has one ringer to her credit: Mrs. Lewis Grege, Mrs. C. B. Penner, Mrs. C. W. Beil, Mrs. Mrs. Allen Arley and Mrs. Thane McKinstry.

This column has flipped a borrowed coin and stands prepared to nominate some possible winners, together with some scores that look to be impossible.

Past performances have been taken into consideration, but this writer's forte is prayer.

Expect Some Shocks.
It is a day out and dried for surprises, hence many fans are surprised to turn out for Sunday school tomorrow wearing puzzled expressions. These scores are written in the belief that Georgia canny and runaway matches will be few.

Because two undefeated teams meet in Birmingham, Centre and Auburn carry much of the south's interest. Not all of it, but in mind, but much of it. The dopests are ready to fight over their selections in this instance.

to score three touchdowns and a field goal and the final score should be 23 to 0. Don't be alarmed if the score is too close for comfort at the end of the first half.

Alabama has come into its own and it is bad medicine to figure the Crimson's past performance. Alabama was crushed by Georgia Tech because the winning spirit had not been developed at Tusculoo. Football teams get that way, you know.

Back With Bang.
Grieving over the massacre at Grant field, Alabama wandered out to the past performance. Alabama was crushed by Georgia Tech because the winning spirit had not been developed at Tusculoo. Football teams get that way, you know.

So the dopests who don't make allowances for the Crimson's reversal of form will be badly fooled when Alabama plays Kentucky university at Lexington. Differences of opinion have already been voiced by two other score pickers in Atlanta.

One sees a Kentucky victory by one touchdown. The other is certain Alabama will win by the same margin. We are inclined to believe that the Tusculoo victory will be even more impressive. Fourteen to nothing, Alabama, is the way we figure this battle.

Something Close.
Might as well look for something close when Tennessee and Sewanee play at Chattanooga. These teams are old and honorable enemies and margins are never large when they settle their arguments.

The dopest that argues Tennessee is going to win knows what he is talking about. The one that predicts an overwhelming score is carrying the thing too far. These your money on the Vols, but please go easy in flinging around points. Better figure Tennessee good enough to register a touchdown and the Tiger a field goal.

That makes the score 6 to 3.
Tennessee, doesn't it? Well, that's good enough. Close enough, to say the least.

Another Surprise.
Tulane and Florida, playing in New Orleans, will be much more than a fumble and a kick again after some minutes of play. Broadhax of the visitors took the ball across on a long run. The play swung back and forth over the field and three side could maintain consistent gains.

The second quarter went the same way until the water part when the visitors scored again on a beautiful pass from Angley to Freeman. Cedartown started out the second half plainly outplayed University but failed to push a man across. University got her last touchdown by playing down the field toward the end of the game. University out-weighted Cedartown about twenty pounds to the man and this weight told heavily.

University also showed wonderful training and teamwork, getting away on plays with a jump. University was penalized numerous times for town over. Both sides played mostly straight football outside of the one long pass by the visitors, the air route being unsuccessful.

Boswell, Anglin, Richardson and
Freeman played the best ball for the visitors, while Harris, Hunt, Edmondson and Cedartown started for the locals. Officials were McGrew of Davidson, referee: Phillips of Tech, umpire: Monroe of Pennsylvania, head linesman.

Albany Defeated.
Albany, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—Albany High lost the chance to win the championship of the South Georgia High School association in football this year when she was beaten by Bainbridge High here today in a close game, 6 to 0. The only touchdown of the game was made by Bainbridge in the second quarter, when White blocked a punt near Albany and kicked for a touchdown. Albany was out-generaled by the visitors. Several times Albany was within striking distance of the goal and she either held for downs or fumbled at a critical juncture.

New York, November 17.—Edouard
Horemans, the Belgian, defeated Jake Schaefer, the champion, by the tally of 500 points to 321 in the ninth game of the 182 balk line billiard championship tournament at the Hotel Pennsylvania tonight. The titleholder was careless and a bit slouchy about his billiards at the start. This proved costly, for Horemans by wonderful massé put together runs of 244 and 11 that smothered the champion, who went down to defeat for the first time since he won the title a year ago at Chicago.

Horemans' average was 35.10-14 and he also had runs of 73 and 55. Schaefer's average was 22.1-3-14 and his best runs 167, 45 and 88.

The standing of the players tonight
was as follows:

Player: Wn. Lost.
Hoppe 2 0
Schaefer 1 1
Horemans 1 1
Cochran 1 1
Hagenlacher 0 4

The two matches scheduled for tomorrow start with Willie Cochran and Horemans in the matinee contest. Willie Hoppe meets Roger Conti, the Frenchman, in the night game.

HORSE SHOW

IS PLANNED

On December 11 at the Auditorium will be held a big horse show to be promoted by the headquarters troop No. 108, Georgia national guard. Over 100 horses from all over the south will be entered in the various contests and many valuable cups and special prizes will be given to the winners.

This will be known as the first annual event of Troop No. 108 and they expect to make this a feature each year. No expense will be spared to make the first show put on by the troop one of the big society events for Atlanta and eventually to make it second to none in the country.

The troop have quite a number of fine horses themselves and at the show there will be a number of daring stunts pulled off by members of the troop who have been practicing for some time for this show.

There will be silver cups offered for the best saddlehorses, draft horses and ponies and special prizes for best show horses. In and around Atlanta there are many fine show horses and this event will give the owners of these the opportunity to show them to the public.

Committees are being made up from the officers of Troop No. 108 who will have charge of the different events and the program that has been outlined, which has not been completed, will cover every big feature of the most successful horse show ever held in Atlanta.

The entire program will be in charge of Ernest Hicks, who will announce in a few days the events and prizes for same. Mr. Hicks will have charge of all the horses for the show. Mr. Hicks can be found at No. 7 Whitehall street. Those who have horses that they expect to enter can get additional information from him.

Cedartown, Ga., November 17.—
University School for Boys of Atlanta defeated Cedartown High here today in a hard fought game, 21 to 0. University scored in the first, second and fourth quarters. University found the local boys one of the toughest propositions they have faced this year. Though they had the edge of playing, the game was not cinched at any time.

Own received in the beginning of the play University showed her nervousness and soon had a kick. Later Cedartown recovered a fumble but had a kick again and after some minutes of play Broadhax of the visitors took the ball across on a long run. The play swung back and forth over the field and three side could maintain consistent gains.

The second quarter went the same way until the water part when the visitors scored again on a beautiful pass from Angley to Freeman. Cedartown started out the second half plainly outplayed University but failed to push a man across. University got her last touchdown by playing down the field toward the end of the game. University out-weighted Cedartown about twenty pounds to the man and this weight told heavily.

University also showed wonderful training and teamwork, getting away on plays with a jump. University was penalized numerous times for town over. Both sides played mostly straight football outside of the one long pass by the visitors, the air route being unsuccessful.

Boswell, Anglin, Richardson and
Freeman played the best ball for the visitors, while Harris, Hunt, Edmondson and Cedartown started for the locals. Officials were McGrew of Davidson, referee: Phillips of Tech, umpire: Monroe of Pennsylvania, head linesman.

Albany Defeated.
Albany, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—Albany High lost the chance to win the championship of the South Georgia High School association in football this year when she was beaten by Bainbridge High here today in a close game, 6 to 0. The only touchdown of the game was made by Bainbridge in the second quarter, when White blocked a punt near Albany and kicked for a touchdown. Albany was out-generaled by the visitors. Several times Albany was within striking distance of the goal and she either held for downs or fumbled at a critical juncture.

New York, November 17.—Edouard
Horemans, the Belgian, defeated Jake Schaefer, the champion, by the tally of 500 points to 321 in the ninth game of the 182 balk line billiard championship tournament at the Hotel Pennsylvania tonight. The titleholder was careless and a bit slouchy about his billiards at the start. This proved costly, for Horemans by wonderful massé put together runs of 244 and 11 that smothered the champion, who went down to defeat for the first time since he won the title a year ago at Chicago.

Horemans' average was 35.10-14 and he also had runs of 73 and 55. Schaefer's average was 22.1-3-14 and his best runs 167, 45 and 88.

The standing of the players tonight
was as follows:

Player: Wn. Lost.
Hoppe 2 0
Schaefer 1 1
Horemans 1 1
Cochran 1 1
Hagenlacher 0 4

The two matches scheduled for tomorrow start with Willie Cochran and Horemans in the matinee contest. Willie Hoppe meets Roger Conti, the Frenchman, in the night game.

TIE BATTLE

AT VALDOSTA

Valdosta, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—Valdosta High and Thomasville High battled to a 12 and 12 tie on the local gridiron today. The fight was a grim one as neither team felt that it could afford to lose. Thomasville scored in the second and fourth periods on a double pass and forward pass respectively, while Valdosta made their tallies in the third and fourth as a result of passing and end running attacks.

Both teams showed practically impragable lines, and while Mrs. for Thomasville and Boone and Price for Valdosta made several plunges for good gains, the real fight was in the passing game. For Valdosta Johnson, at quarter, and Jackson, at end, were the stars, and were ably assisted by Price, at full. For Thomasville, the fleet footed Lindsey and the powerful Mays starred. Pittman at center for Thomasville starred in the line.

Albany, who was soundly trounced by the Thomasville squad, is the next opponent for the "Dosta Wildcatters." Since the game is both ways, we can only expect a hard-fought game between the two schools.

Cartersville, Ga., November 17.—
(Special.)—The Cartersville High school eleven defeated the strong Marietta High school team on the local field Friday afternoon by the score of 18 to 7.

The game was hotly contested from the first kick off, and until the final whistle blew it was anyone's game. An outstanding feature was the forward passing of the locals, while the Marietta boys thrilled the crowd with their spectacular end runs. Reid, for Marietta, was the star for the visitors, while Clyde Smith and John Walton held up the traditions of Cartersville High in great style. In the last half Marietta came back and made their only touchdown. Next Friday afternoon the locals meet the strong Cedartown eleven in Cartersville.

GIL REECE, CHIEF DEPENDENCE OF VANDY IN ATHENS

Aerial Game Will Be Used In Case Georgia's Flanks Stop Vanderbilt Attack

Line Smashing Will Be Turned Over to Meiers, but Commodore Officials Believe Bulldogs' Line Will Hold.

BY HOMER GEORGE.

Athens, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—With every promise of furnishing a thrilling, modern, spectacular contest, Georgia and Vanderbilt elevens are resting tonight each with full confidence as to the outcome of their battle tomorrow afternoon.

This game is part and biggest parcel of the homecoming week-end for Georgia's alumni and gives promise of drawing the biggest crowd that has ever been seen at a match here.

The Vanderbilt crew, with Coach McGugin, two assistants, managers, Faculty Representative Brown, and a host of followers arrived early yesterday morning. On the same train were numerous and sundry society belles who came over to grace some of the week-end house parties.

At parts of Georgia and other states are represented on the train which are here for the affair. Old grads who were at Georgia when I was in swaddling clothes are in town along with the newest turnouts from the dear old institution. But tomorrow will be the big return day for the old timers.

As the game is the big thing it is to the game we will turn. It is going to be a titanic struggle. Maybe I used this same sentence in referring to the Virginia-Georgia game. If so it applied and I am sure it will apply with equal force tomorrow.

Certainly those who are supposed to know say this.

Coaches Stegman and McGugin are positive in this statement and their assistants who have scouted the opposition add the same to those of their mentors. Personally, it looks to me about the tightest proposition the south offers. I have watched Georgia in two games and think of a pretty fair idea of the strength and weakness of the team. Vanderbilt has been studied through talks with those who have seen them in action and from close reading of the details of the team's play.

As a result I simply say that the man who can guess the winner is a better guesser than I am. At that there are a lot of fellows here saying they can name the winner and betting on their picks. Mostly the betting has been at even money, though in Atlanta yesterday followers of Vanderbilt were giving from six to seven points to Georgia. If anyone would give me seven points, I would let him select his team. That is how close it looks to me.

McGugin had his crew out at the Country club for a line-up and practice this afternoon. Most of the time was given to attempts to perfect forward passes. One of these passes is a triple throw, which is expected to fool the Georgians completely. The big Vandy coach also showed a number of fancy forward pass formations, some of which were deceptive in the extreme, and I will be badly surprised if the Tennessee aggregation does not resort more to passes than any other form of play tomorrow.

Worked on Passes.

On the other hand, Stegman had his team out today for three hours' hard work and most of that time was likewise spent in perfecting forward passes and trying to present formations and plays which will deceive the aforesaid opposition. But Georgia will try to gain through the line and around the ends as she did against Auburn before resorting to passes unless I am fooled as to the strategy which Stegman will adopt. At any rate it is sure to be a spectacular game, and at any minute a threat may develop into a scoring play.

Both elevens have plays which are striking and unique and which may result in a shattering of the other's nerve and defense. Vandy especially has a long forward pass which may turn in a trick as Auburn turned at Columbus against Georgia. Stegman coaches more for short passes and it will be interesting to watch the development of the strategy which is so widely different.

It is believed the lines and ends of each eleven will smash up most regular plays. Recce this extra and special effort along the air route.

I talked to McGugin tonight and he admitted he did not expect to do much of anything but the line and ends of Georgia. He stated he was using his fastest backs with the idea that they would be more valuable as to forward passes. Especially he has been working Recce and Rountree all the week with this feature in view.

He said: "It's a tough game so far as I can see. It looks as if our best prospects for winning will be through the use of forward passes. Hence the length of time given to practice in this feature tonight. We may have our best backs. I am going to start with them and hold Meiers for reserve strength. I cannot predict how successful our passes will be, of course, but my boys will be trying their best and fighting their hardest all the time." Recce will be Vandy's best ground-gainer.

Georgia will enter the game minus the services of that star little quarter, Dick Mulvihill, who is suffering severely from a bad side and sprained hip. He was taken out of practice for two days but was sufficiently recovered this afternoon to spend a half hour at practice goal kicking. He was shooting them with the goal posts with astonishing regularity, too, and will be very much missed tomorrow. His absence changes the Georgia lineup materially. Colliers will be pulled off end and sent in at quarter. Anderson will take his place at his old position with Richardson on the opposite flank. The backfield will be Fletcher and Thompson, half backs, and Tanner at full, with Colliers at the quarter. At any rate this is what Stegman says. He is expected to change his mind if Mulvihill is better.

At Athens Going Wild.

As I write this the street in front of the Western Union office, the meeting place of students, old-timers and locals interested in the game, the Georgia band is blaring forth "At Hot Time," the boys are yelling themselves hoarse and excitement is filling the surrounding crowd. The gang has just had a great rally meeting in the old chapel and is as set for the game as the players themselves. It is great to be young and full of pep and ginger, as well as to have a strong voice.

If you are inclined to be superstitious I can tell you the winner. At any rate the negro postman on one of the routes here is sure he has the game. Now remember this and either give him credit and laugh tomorrow night. Georgia, 13; Vanderbilt, 0—in the dream.

This same postman's sister is said to have dreamed the exact score of the 6 to 6 Georgia-Virginia tie. Also the dreamer saw in her sleep the fact that a woman would succeed Tom Watson as senator, but have a lot of trouble about being seated. The postman was so sure of this result that he wanted to bet even money it would be just as seen in the dream. That is as good inside dope as I have been able to gather from talks to many over here. Take it or leave it, as you will.

B. H. S. PLAYS IN CHARLESTON

BY CRADDOCK GOINS.

Sixteen players departed from the Terminal station at 7:45 o'clock last night to fight for Boys' High school against one of the best high school football teams in the country.

In meeting the Charleston High school on the latter's grounds today the local youngsters are facing a team whose prowess is not to be questioned, and victory for the Atlantans is something that not even the most ardent supporter can predict.

The Charleston school has a habit of turning out unusually good football teams every year, probably for the very good reason that there is a shortage of high schools in the South Carolina city, which makes for less distribution of gridiron talent. Save for the Porters and the Charlestonians have little competition.

The spurs of the Charleston lads were certainly well earned when they trounced the strong Duval team of Florida and established a very firm claim for southern high school championship honors.

Tied Peabody School.

If this is not enough to stamp them as having a very high caliber team, the fact of holding one of the strongest high schools of the east to a tie a short time ago, speaks for itself. The Peabody High school of Massachusetts is ever among the leaders of the great prep teams in the east, where football talent abounds in quantities highly satisfying, and where coaches are plentiful and highly capable.

The Peabody team recently sent to Charleston a team that nobody in its part of the country thought could be kept from running rampant over the southerners.

But they were very lucky, indeed, according to reports, to get away with a tie, the sending over their local in the third quarter.

So, this is the outfit that Boys' High will go up against. High will go up against with inter-city and inter-state laurels at stake at the same time. Although the local youngsters are not counting themselves out of the running there is no concealing the fact that they are moving on Charleston with the fixed intention of playing a stop-or-else defensive game, and it seems probable that the best the Atlantans can hope for is a low score.

One fine thing about this football excursion, which is one of the longest ever made by an Atlanta school, is the fact that Boys' High players will not miss one single hour from school in making the trip. It is arranged that the team will be back in Atlanta well in time for bed Sunday night, and for the classrooms the following morning. There is much to commend in the attitude of keeping classroom study from suffering at the cost of a football trip.

The Atlanta team was headed by Coach Rouben and Eugene W. Manager Paul Rosner. Players were C. A. Jameson, captain; K. Boland, h. b.; b. Minich, f. b.; Butler, h. b.; b. Munich, f. b.; Hill, e. b.; Noyes, g. b.; Watkin, e. b.; Carter, e. b.; Pegram, g. b.; Monroe, e. b.; Merrimon, g. b.; O'Dwyer, g. b.

TECH HI AND CADETS MEET

BY ROY E. WHITE.

Tech High and G. M. A. meet this morning at 10 o'clock at Grant field.

The principal, W. O. Cheney, has suspended four of the varsity players at Tech High for irregularities in attendance to the classes. The boys suspended were Clyde and Jack Curran, Bob Hollis and Ed Payne. They will probably be a week before the suspended men will be restored to their places.

Every man on the G. M. A. varsity team was ordered to turn in his uniform last Tuesday afternoon because of violations of the training rules. Coach Wright has been working with a brand new team this week.

Brooks Will Start.

SERVICE MEN GETTING SET

Ponce de Leon park will take on a military air Wednesday when the Army and Marine corps football teams play for the service championship of the south. Not only will the Marines be there in a body, but every member of the Fort McPherson garrison will be present to cheer the local down to the well-known "buck" private will march in a body to the Ponce de Leon grounds where they will give the spectators an opportunity to see some trick drilling between the periods of rest for the players. During the game they will root for their Army "buddies."

The "service game of the south," the first ever staged this side of Washington, is being sponsored by the strong G. M. C. team by a score of 75 to 0 and quite a few of the Grove lads were injured and are in no condition to play.

Only Thursday night the game between Tech High and G. M. A. for Friday afternoon was called off because there was no place to play the game and it will be played Saturday morning at Grant field at 10 o'clock.

Many football fans were seen on the Marist field early Friday afternoon and were given a football game between the Marist varsity and scrub elevens. The scrimmage lasted practically all afternoon and many spectacular plays were run off by both teams.

The town of Midland, Mich., has been run for the last six years by chemists. The mayor, three aldermen and one member of the school board are chemists.

OGLETHORPE LOSES-18-16

Macon, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—Mercer reaped sweet revenge on the Oglethorpe Petrels here this afternoon, defeating the Atlantans 18 to 16, in one of the most thrilling games ever witnessed on the local gridiron.

The contest abounded in thrills, beautiful forward passes, spectacular end runs, occasional fumbles and other features of interest serving to keep the large crowd pepped up throughout the contest.

After Oglethorpe had got off to a ten-point lead, Mercer staged a come-back which sent the spectators into loud cheers. The Petrels scored a field goal as the first marker of the game, when Captain Edgar David, with his left foot, drove a place-kick between the bars from the 25-yard line. This score came directly as a result of a Mercer fumble on their own 23-yard line.

Mercer scored again in the third quarter when Felder bucked the ball over after Captain Lancaster had intercepted a forward pass on Oglethorpe's 27-yard line and returned it 11 yards. Mercer missed all the attempts for points following touchdowns.

Oglethorpe's second touchdown came in the last quarter when Maurer scooped up a fumble and raced 45 yards for a touch down. David had previously made the point after a touchdown on a placement kick, but missed on this occasion, the final score being 18-16.

For Mercer, Felder, Smith, Cecil and Lynch did excellent work, with the entire line being almost impregnable. Maurer, with his 45-yard run and several shorter runs, featured Captain David being a worthy running mate for the fleet-footed halfback.

Today's victory was the first won by Mercer over the Petrels, the Atlanta team having repulsed the Maconians three successive seasons.

Lineup and Summary.

Tarheels Are Expected to Put Up Hard Fight Against Big Odds—Team Reached Atlanta Early Friday Morning.

BY JOHN STATON

(Tech's Left End)

Why go to France or Europe when you can see America first? Similarly why journey to Athens or to Birmingham when you can witness a wonderful football game right here in town? The North Carolina State Tech game at Grant field today will have everything that the others possess. Following the usual custom for November games, this affair will begin at 2 o'clock sharp.

It will be the first time that North Carolina State has appeared on the Tech schedule for five years. Our last meeting was in 1929 when Tech gave them an awful drubbing. So, except for the old heads who have been following the game right through, the people will witness a practically strange team in action.

There's always something absorbing about watching a strange team, something thrilling in seeing the way that they interpret football. For that reason, if none other, the game should be well worth seeing.

Team Arrives.

The team arrived in town about 6 o'clock Friday morning. They went immediately to the hotel and lounged around all morning. Yesterday afternoon they had a workout on the field. It was astonishing to see the size of them. As a team they are by far the biggest that we have met this season. And they seemed trimmed down with all their heftiness. A real looking football team rather than a bunch of levers. The team ought to average around 185 pounds. Coach Hartsell has drilled the old game into them, too. They had a mighty snappy signal drill that spelled trouble.

The Tech team did not work out on the field until 4 o'clock. The men then did nothing other than toss a few passes around and went through about thirty minutes of signals. Coach Alex says that his men are in condition now, and his chief problem is to keep them that way. The general shape of the squad is excellent, with the exception of Al Staton and Claire Frye, there's not a man who will not be ready at the first whistle today. And even they two could do their share in a pinch.

The freshmen left yesterday for the mountains. This afternoon they will meet Piedmont college in Denmark. They were forced to leave behind them two of the best men that they have, Marshall and Wyckoff. Both were unable to make the trip, due to injuries. Marshall has been suffering with a chronic sprained ankle, and Wyckoff has a ligament torn loose in his back.

The freshmen should beat Piedmont, for they have a good team. But how bad is a matter of conjecture. Dad Amis, coach of the freshmen, is rather dubious in his prediction, but committed himself to this extent: He said that if the freshmen played the ball of which they are capable, they should win. So say we of the North Carolina State game. If Tech plays the ball of which she is capable, then theirs ought to be the victory when the sun goes down on Grant field.

G. M. C. DEFEATS JACKSON HIGH

Middegeville, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)—G. M. C. scrubs defeated Jackson High, 30 to 7. Captain Howell, of Jackson, intercepted a pass on his 10-yard line and ran 90 yards for his team's only touchdown.

Clay and Alfriend in the backfield, played well for G. M. C. Jackson's fullback, Morke, and Captain Howell are good players and will make good on the gridiron.

Wins Derby Cup.

Derby, England, November 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—False Alarm, by Rattlejack, out of White Lie, owned by J. H. Hall, won the derby cup handicap of 1,250 pounds run here today. Caniff's Charlebelles was second and Major Worthington's Brinklow third. Thirteen horses ran.

False Alarm won by three-quarters of a length with Charlebelles a neck ahead of Brinklow. The betting was: False Alarm 20 to 1; Charlebelles 9 to 1 and Brinklow, 20 to 1 against.

Many Guests Assemble for Teas at Woman's Club

Visitors, brides-elect and many members of the club enjoyed the teas given at the Atlanta Woman's club Friday afternoon.

Autumn leaves and chrysanthemums, palms and ferns formed the pretty and effective decorations.

One of the largest parties of the afternoon was the tea given by Mrs. Bun Wylie, in compliment to Miss Mamie Branch Powers, bride-elect, whose marriage to Mr. Franklin Beatty Davis, formerly of Pittsburgh, Pa., will be solemnized November 28.

The tea table placed in the dining room held in the center a gold wicker basket, filled with handsome yellow chrysanthemums, the handle tied with a yellow and blue tulle bow. At intervals were placed candlesticks holding tall yellow tapers, tied with blue tulle bows, and at each guest's place were tiny yellow baskets holding mints, the handles adorned with blue tulle bows. The places were marked by little kewpie dolls dressed as brides, holding miniature bridal bouquets.

Covers were placed for Miss Powers, Miss Maude Powers, Miss Mary Barnett, Miss Frances Powell, Miss Marjorie Weldon, Miss Elizabeth Skewmake, Miss Maude Carter, Miss Lella Kirkpatrick, Miss Ethel Tye, Miss Lella Owens, Miss Lella Owens, Miss Lydia Wheeler, Miss Marjorie McMillan, Miss Margaret Webb, of Bowling Green, Va.; Miss Mary Rogers, of New Jersey; Mrs. Drury Powers, Mrs. Walter Brant, Mrs. Edna Avery Jones, Mrs. Benwick Dunlap and Mrs. Wylie.

Mrs. John Funks entertained informally at bridge followed by tea. Her guests were Mrs. McDonald Baldwin, Mrs. Joseph Smith and Mrs. Burke.

Covers were laid for Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Charles Larsen, of Arizona, the guest of her father, Judge Jeffries, was central figure at a small informal tea, at which Mrs. Charles P. Noble, Jr., was hostess.

Mrs. B. C. Kistner entertained two tables of bridge followed by tea. The guests included the members of her bridge club. Others entertaining parties were Miss Mary Moore, Miss Mary Coley, Mrs. Legare Davis, Mrs. A. B. Billups and others.

Miss Lightfoot and Miss Cook Joint Hostesses at Dinner

Miss Ellen Ross Lightfoot and Miss Roberta Cook were joint hostesses Friday evening at a delightful buffet supper at the home of Mrs. W. R. Lightfoot on West Peachtree.

The entire lower floor was thrown together, colonial style, and in all the rooms yellow chrysanthemums, ferns and autumn leaves carried out the color motif of autumn.

The lace covered table held in the center an imported Dresden vase. Encircling this were antique candles with the old fashioned prisms, the candles matching the centerpiece. The buffet is over 150 years old and is of an unusual design.

The hostess wore a handsome gown of pink velvet trimmed with silver. Miss Cook was lovely in heliotrope chiffon over silver cloth.

Mrs. Lightfoot, who assisted her daughter in receiving, wore grey georgette with violet trimming.

The guests included:

Misses Frances Huddleston, Estelle Lindsey, Minnie Cook, Dorothy Clark, Edeline Gwinn, Elizabeth Worley, Blanche Thomas, Rollin Gallacher, of Jasper, Ala., and Charlie McKenna, Val Stanton, Ray Hastings, Albert Henry, Nat Thornton, Ernest Welborn, J. E. Ralston, T. N. Prettyman, Agnes Alexander, Meredith Hoy, and Dr. Robert Margeson.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis Entertain At Dinner for Miss Orme

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Davis entertained for Miss Alice Orme, bride-elect of this month, at an evening bridge Friday at their home on Clifton road.

Fall flowers in artistic arrangement formed the decorations of the home. After the game the guests were served at the individual tables.

The tea table, lace covered, had a centerpiece of white flowers, encircling which were green unshaded tapers in silver candlesticks, alternating with silver compots of mints. At intervals were placed silver baskets which the bridesmaids will carry in the wedding.

These were filled with candies and vari-colored ribbons.

Miss Orme was presented with a pair of vases. The top score prize for the men was an ivory cigarette holder, and for the women a silver jewel box.

The hostess wore a becoming gown of green charmeuse.

Miss Orme was gowned in blue velvet.

The guests included:

Muse Shoes for Children

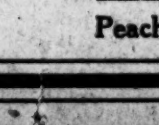

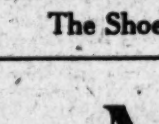

TO provide Atlanta with shoes for children is not only an opportunity, but a great responsibility. A mother of several little children has just shown us how keen is this responsibility in telling us how well Muse has met it. His girl and boy had been wearing shoes that sagged, or turned, to one side—at the heel. (You've seen that often.) The little girl had become so accustomed to this unnatural twist that they began to turn that way of their own accord.

And he found that the Muse shoes—being staunch and firm, shaped right, and of the most excellent leathers—not only did not sag, but forced the misguided feet to keep straight and erect, as they should.

And being of this splendid leather, they wore "like iron"—paid for themselves, over and over again, in super-service!

The large Muse stocks provide the precise size and width that each individual child requires, and the thoughtful, thorough, interested Muse salesmen select this exact size as carefully as the physician, prescribing.

Women Organize Auxiliary To American Legion Post

A woman's auxiliary has been organized in connection with the Henry Thomas Ross post, No. 78, of the American Legion.

The women took the initial step towards organization Thursday evening, when the post held a meeting at 8 o'clock in the Kimball House.

Temporary officers were elected as follows:

Mrs. A. P. Treadwell, chairman; Mrs. F. B. Saunders, vice chairman; Mrs. Ernest Brown, treasurer; Mrs. Evan Howell, secretary.

Mrs. Treadwell will call the first meeting of the woman's auxiliary next week.

A large and enthusiastic crowd was present when the women announced their desire to become affiliated with the legion through an auxiliary organization. The purpose of the woman's auxiliary, it was announced, is to assist and aid the American Legion, especially in its work of rehabilitating the world war veterans.

Dean Johnston, of St. Philip's Cathedral, made an address in which he commended the legion for its excellent work and complimented the members of the Henry Thomas Ross post on their wisdom in receiving the co-operation of the women.

Music was furnished during the evening by Mrs. McCrea, soloist, and Mrs. E. Bangs, pianist.

A reception followed the meeting.

Mrs. Alex Reeves

Honors Bridge Club.

A lovely affair of Wednesday afternoon was a bridge-tee given by Mrs. Alex Reeves, Jr., complimenting the members of her club.

The reception apartments were decorated with quantities of fall flowers and shrubs.

Mrs. Carl J. Weinmeister, Jr., won top score, while Mrs. Perry cut consolation.

Mrs. Reeves' guests included: Mrs. Gur Crelgton, Mrs. Harry Helmer, Mrs. Fred Lindome, Mrs. Herman McCloskey, Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Alex Reeves, Mrs. Otto Reeves, Mrs. William Shanley, Mrs. Jack Simms, Mrs. Rahurn Stevens, Mrs. Jaman Watson and Mrs. Carl J. Weinmeister, Jr.

National Capital May Get Next Convention of U. D. C.

Birmingham, Ala., November 17.—(Special.)—Selection of the next convention city, which is expected to be Washington, D. C., remained the only important action tonight to be taken by the 29th annual convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy in session here. Action on the next meeting place will be taken tomorrow.

The appearance of Gutson Borglum, sculptor, who explained his plans for chiseled the history of the confederacy on Stone Mountain, near Atlanta, and the decision of a part of the delegation to visit Montgomery, the cradle of the confederacy, Sunday featured this afternoon's session. Although the convention decided it could not join hands with the Georgia division and the Stone Mountain association in undertaking the memorial project at this time, Borglum told the delegates that he would resume work in the next week or ten days.

The head of General Robert E. Lee, which will be eight feet high, will come first, Borglum said. The figure of General Lee on horseback will be thirty feet high, he said. When complete the project will cost $2,000,000, he estimated, and will include a museum located out in the mountains containing thirteen entrances, which will be used for archives of the U. D. C. Lamps costing $800 each, that could project pictures 25 miles away, will be used to imprint the figure on the rock, Borglum said. After the figures have been imprinted by the lamps, with the aid of chemical coatings, work of etching them will be taken up. An army of one hundred will have the appearance of a thousand. It will require eight years to finish the work.

The decision to visit Montgomery was reached when Mrs. Charles Sharp, of Birmingham, explained that Montgomery daughters were greatly disappointed over action of the convention in abandoning its trip there Friday, as originally scheduled. The delegates will attend unofficially.

Telegram From Wilson.

Birmingham, Ala., November 17.—After hearing Gutson Borglum, sculptor, outline plans for carving the history of the confederacy upon Stone Mountain, near Atlanta, delegates to the convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy decided that they could not officially take part in this giant undertaking this year.

The report of the educational committee showed that more than $97,000 is being spent annually in educating young men and women to get college training.

A telegram was received from Woodrow Wilson by the convention this afternoon in response to greetings sent by the daughters while they were greeting absent officers, via Miss Alie Garner, Alabama woman, who is the corresponding secretary-general.

D. A. R. Committee Is Honored By Mrs. Spratling

Mrs. Fletcher J. Spratling entertained the ways and means committee, Atlanta chapter, D. A. R., at a delightful luncheon Friday at her home on Seventeenth street.

The house was decorated by lovely fall flowers used in artistic arrangement. Luncheon was served at small tables seating four.

Covers were laid for the following: Mrs. Edward Hook, Mrs. Henry B. Melson, Mrs. Edward Barnes and her guest, Miss Joseph, of Columbus, Ga.; Mrs. Thomas Morgan, Mrs. James Logan, Mrs. Charles Love, Mrs. Charles Rice, Mrs. A. W. Holmsett, Mrs. Bun Wyley, Mrs. George Hope and Mrs. Spratling.

Mrs. Turman Is Hostess for Miss Gay

Mrs. R. L. Turman gave a lovely tea at her home on Myrtle street Friday in honor of Miss Eleanor Gay, debutante.

Ferns, palms and flowers decorated the house. Baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums carried out the color scheme.

Miss Eleanor Gay and Mrs. Sanford Gay assisted Mrs. Turman in receiving.

In the dining room the lace-covered tea table had as a centerpiece a silver loving cup filled with yellow and white chrysanthemums. Four silver candlesticks holding yellow unshaded tapers alternated with silver compotes holding yellow and white mints.

Assisting in serving were: Mrs. J. W. Wills, Mrs. George Hoyt and Mrs. A. E. Wheeler.

Serving punch were: Miss Virginia Turman and Miss Clarice Henning. Assisting in entertaining were: Mrs. Gay's four bridesmaids, Mrs. John Spalding, Mrs. Alfred Newell, Mrs. George Lewis and Mrs. Newton Calkins. Mrs. Willie Martin Hurt also assisted in entertaining.

Miss Gay was dressed in blue satin trimmed in brown lace and fur.

Mrs. Gay's becoming costume was of black tulle and crepe beaded in jet. Mrs. Turman wore a handsome model of brown lace, the girdle of blue satin and silver.

Seventy-five guests called during the afternoon.

Mrs. Cooper Is Honor Guest.

Mrs. James H. Nunnally was hostess Friday for Mrs. Hunter Cooper at a luncheon at the Piedmont Driving Club.

The luncheon table was placed in the gray room.

A silver loving cup filled with yellow chrysanthemums formed the centerpiece. Silver baskets filled with the same lovely flowers and yellow candles in silver holders encircled this.

Covers were placed for a group of the honor guests' friends.

Mrs. Robert H. Davis Gives Luncheon.

An enjoyable event of Thursday was the informal luncheon given by Mrs. Robert H. Davis at her home on North Jackson street.

The luncheon table was adorned by a lace cover and held in the center a vase of red chrysanthemums.

Covers were laid for Miss Ruby Terrell, Mrs. Harry Derrenau Rice, Mrs. Harry Etheridge, Jr., Mrs. William F. Stewart, Mrs. C. E. Forest and Mrs. Davis.

Oilcloth Covers. The kitchen table cloth will last longer if pieces of muslin are pasted over the corners of the table before the oilcloth is tacked down. It is usually the corners of the tablecloth that wear out first and this will prevent a shabby appearance.

Blouses for Sports Have Taken On the Appearance of the Garments Worn at St. Moritz and Are Intended to Keep One Warm, White and Tan Have Become Popular Colors and Thick Materials Are Preferred.

The vanishing sweater left a trail of warm sport blouses that do not need a shirtwaist beneath. Most of them are fashioned after the kind of thing women use for skating. They are invented in Paris to serve for the mountains of Switzerland, they come to America to serve for the coldness of Lake Placid and the warm beaches of Florida. The new ones are long and bellies; they are fashioned of those queer, closely woven fabrics that once were kept for children and bed coverings. They're wooly and soft and light of weight.

Such materials are christened with many names and several of them are expensive. The English knitted fabrics are liked by Americans, but the French have invented a kind of woolen hosiery which clings to the figure and is ornamental.

The ordinary knitted sweater does not take its place among these new garments and the knitted silk blouse is worn more frequently with street tailored costumes than for sports.

The sketch shows one of the new blouses in soft tan wool which is fastened on the bias, after it is slipped over the head, with buttons made of ivory to represent owl heads. The bands of color are in Egyptian blue and they run around the hips and the wrists and the neck.

This collar is one of the new kind. It can be pulled up to cover all of the face except the eyes when wind and sleet demand protection; in peace, it can be rolled downward to

AT WOMAN'S WINDOW

BY W. L. GEORGE

WATCHING A BOY.

Too many mothers seem to be inclined to believe that boys are a lesser responsibility than are girls. There exists an idea that girls need protection against all sorts of vague dangers which do not exist, that immense care must be devoted to their manners, to their accomplishments; in other words, the mother tries to turn out a sort of champion daughter, while a boy she hands over to the school and the college, sublimely secure that everything will be done to turn him into the man he ought to be.

In fact, the true situation is not that. The boy is really a more delicate proposition than the girl. In the first place, he is more sensitive; I know that I run against popular prejudice in saying this, but he is. He suffers agonies when he disapproves of his parents' manners, when he is ashamed of their poverty, when he has to wear clothes which the other boys think funny. He is also immensely proud of his success in school work or in games. Therefore, he suffers when he fails, and as a rule, if he is a decent boy, he does not find the easy relief that girls do in tears. A decent woman, therefore, who wants to be a good mother to a boy has got to watch him continually. She must ascertain, not by direct questions but in the course of conversation, whether he has anything on his mind. Then let her tell him not to be silly, but let her help him to attain where he thinks he wants to go. Let her make it easy for the more desirable of his friends, instead of making it hard for the undesirable. Let her not control his movements too much, but let her try to know where he goes. Thus perhaps she may discover where he is going in life.

look like the collar of a collegian.

There are fringed hats of soft suede that go with these sport blouses, but they are an American production. Any kind of suede turban is worn for sports and its trimming usually consists of those two ubiquitous hatpins that telescope into each other and make a double-headed ornament about four inches long.

When belts are worn with these long sport blouses they are copied from a dog leash. They are of plaited leather, usually round. There is no buckle, for the two ends are looped and knotted at one end, which is another primitive fashion; we have dug up from the dark ages.

Heavy white woolen materials contribute to sport blouses whether they are worn on the snow under eglers, or on the sand under palm trees. They have long sleeves, no matter where the place or what the fabric. This is a fashion that does not always suit the sportsman, but, then, how many women who wear sport clothes indulge in sports?

THE HOUSEHOLD

HUMBLE PARSNIPS.

There is no reason in the world why we should tire of the so-called "humble" vegetables—the vegetables that can be stored away in the cellar, and that were—before the days of greenhouses and refrigerators—the mainstay of winter diets. Parsnips, of course, are classed among these winter vegetables. And they are really wonderful vegetables when it comes to the number of ways in which they may be prepared. Here are a few that are perhaps new to you:

Parsnip Cakes.

Take one large cup of mashed parsnips, half a teaspoon of salt, one egg, a heaping teaspoon of good baking powder, one cup of flour and three-quarters of a cup of milk. Stir this mixture till it is a smooth batter; then have some fat in a frying pan half an inch deep and drop the batter into it by spoonful. Brown it nicely on one side, then turn it. The cakes will be found most delicate and may be eaten alone or with any other course.

Stewed Parsnips.

Peel the parsnips and put them in a casserole with a little flour and butter between each two layers. Season with salt and pepper, and pour white stock enough barely to come to the top of the parsnips. Cover and cook slowly for two hours.

Fried Slices.

Boil parsnips until tender and then peel off the skins. Slice the parsnips lengthwise, and fry the slices brown in hot lard or oil. Bacon fat gives a delicious flavor, far better than butter or lard.

Miss Pearce Hostess For Bride-Elect.

Miss Marie Pearce was hostess at a beautiful luncheon on Friday for Miss Marion Stone, whose wedding will take place Wednesday night.

A mound of pink roses and maiden hair ferns formed the centerpiece of the well-appointed table. The color motif was pink and white. Little hand-painted cupid were the place cards.

Miss Pearce wore an exquisite gown of black satin-back crepe. Miss Stone was a charming figure in sage green canton crepe with a black and silver hat.

Covers were placed for: Miss Stone, Miss Harriet Mark, Miss Katie Lucia Sims, Mrs. Ralph Barnwell, Mrs. William Sutton, Mrs. Murphy Gaudin, Jr., Miss Nell Chandler, Miss Christine Glenn, Miss Lella Hardman and Miss Pearce.

Miss Orme Is Honored at Bridge Tea

Miss Alice Orme, lovely bride-elect of this month, was honored Friday at a bridge-tee given by Mrs. Joseph Nelson Harper at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Pink roses and lavender chrysanthemums formed the lovely decorations. The tea table, lace covered, held pink roses in a silver vase as the centerpiece, encircled by pink tapers in silver candlesticks.

Mrs. Harper received wearing a handsome black crepe de chine dress and a black velvet hat.

Miss Orme's gown was of black bloused satin, combined with gold, and her becoming hat was of gold metal cloth.

The guests included:

Misses Orme, Emily Robinson, Alice Stearns, Lydia Matthews, Sarah Orme, Anne Gish, Patty McGhee, Mrs. Charles Orme, Mrs. Joseph Orme, and Mrs. A. D. Adair.

Lots of Eggs, All Winter

Flock of 46 Hens Laid 39 Eggs a Day. Costs Nothing to Try.

"Have been using Don Sung since Jan. 1st. My 46 hens are very healthy, and the extreme cold weather doesn't seem to affect the egg production at all. Last week they laid 39 eggs a day. My pure-blooded flock is the center of attraction in this neighborhood."—Alice M. Diefenderfer, Hingham, Pa.

If you think your hens can't lay as well, right through the winter months, you're making an expensive mistake. A little Don Sung in their feed costs but a trifle, and shows a big difference in the egg record.

Let us at our risk, start your hens laying now.

Here's our offer: Give Don Sung to 15 hens. Then watch results for 30 days. If it doesn't show you a big increase in egg production, we'll refund the money you paid for Don Sung.

Don Sung (Chinese for egg laying) sets directly on the egg production and is beneficial in every way. It makes hens healthy and happy. They scratch and sing, and develop earlier in the season. When eggs are scarce and high, you can afford to ignore the wonderful reports you are hearing from Don Sung users everywhere. Why not let us show you the same results, with your flock? Don Sung is no trouble to use. It costs nothing to try. All we ask is a chance to prove our claims, at our risk. Get Don Sung from your local dealer, or send 50 cents for package by mail prepaid (large size, $1, holds three times as much). Burdell-Dugger Company, 24 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

DON SUNG Laying Tablets

NERVOUS WRECK FOR SIX WEEKS

Kentucky Lady Tells How She Became Strong and Healthy. — Recommends Cardui to Weak Women.

Mount Vernon, Ky.—Mrs. Cynthia Vanhook, formerly of Stanford, but now residing here, says that after her third child was born, she undertook to resume her housework too soon, and this caused her a great deal of trouble.

"I began to feel weak and all played out—not myself at all," as Mrs. Vanhook describes her condition. "For about six weeks I was just a nervous wreck. I had to have some one do all my housework."

"My doctor told me my imprudence had caused shock to the nervous system, and the thing to do was to use a tonic to build up my strength."

"He recommended Cardui. . . Very soon I saw an improvement in my condition. I used three bottles of Cardui and . . . my health was restored."

"I am a strong, healthy woman."

This Kentucky lady adds that she "never fails to recommend Cardui to weak and run-down lady friends." Thousands of women praise Cardui to their friends.

This mild, harmless, vegetable tonic medicine has been in successful use for over forty years, in the treatment of many common ailments suffered by women.

Your druggist sells Cardui. Let him supply you, today.—(adv.)

Recent Bride Honor Guest At Bridge Tea

Mrs. Willis Meade Everett, Jr., a recent bride, who was before her marriage Miss Mary Woodbridge, was central figure at an informal bridge-tee Friday afternoon at which Mrs. J. B. P. Allen was hostess at her home in the Phelan apartment.

The home was artistic in its decorations of pink roses in crystal baskets and chrysanthemums in silver vases.

In the dining room the lace-covered tea table held in the center, a crystal basket filled with yellow chrysanthemums, encircled by crystal candlesticks holding tall yellow tapers.

Following the game tea was served at the individual tables.

Mrs. Everett wore a smart afternoon gown of black chiffon velvet combined with gold metal cloth. Her hat was a becoming model of black velvet.

The guests included a number of friends of the honor guest.

Mrs. Barnett Gives Luncheon Party.

Mrs. Stephen Barnett gave a luncheon for Miss Mildred Delmar, of New York, at her home on East Fourth street, Friday.

The luncheon table had as a centerpiece a silver basket filled with yellow chrysanthemums. Silver candlesticks holding white unshaded tapers were placed at intervals.

The guests included: Miss Ned Kendrick, Miss Jean Kendrick, Miss Mary Barnett, Miss Isabelle Howard, Miss Emily Davis, Miss Martha Boynton, Miss Delmar and Mrs. Barnett.

Some of Our Exceptionally Good Values

How to Make Your Stockings Last Twice as Long

Buy your silk stockings a half size larger. If you wear a nine in cotton or lisle, buy a nine and a half in silk. The extra length eases the strain on the delicate fibres but will not cause the stocking to wrinkle. You will find that it adjusts itself to the shape of the foot.

Put Them on the Safe Way

Turn your stocking inside out, stopping at the heel. Slip in the foot and draw the stocking gently up over the leg. Dragging it on from the top subjects the silk fibres to an unnecessary strain which weakens and breaks them.

Be careful that the settings of your rings, roughened finger or toe nails do not catch a thread of silk and tear it.

Attach the garter to the reinforced web especially designed for this purpose. More runers runs are started by fastening garters to the body of the stocking than in any other way.

Perspiration Rots Silk Stockings

Every minute that your silk stockings spend in the perspiration shortens their life. The acid in perspiration attacks the silk and rot it. Your silk stockings should be washed immediately after each wearing.

The Constitution's Novel-a-Week

Their Mutual Child

BY P. G. WODEHOUSE

Next Week, "Man to Man"
By Jackson Gregory

After writing a note to Mamie, Steve, with the White Hope left the room and crept down the dark stairs. He unlocked the door and went out into the street. Close by, under the trees, stood his automobile. He picked up the White Hope, closed the door, and ran.

It was fortunate, considering the magnitude of the shock which she was to receive, that circumstances had given Steve's Mamie unusual powers of resistance in the matter of shocks.

It was a bit of luck that Mrs. Porter happened to be away for the moment. It gave her time for reflection. It was another bit of luck that, as she had learned from Kegg, whom she met on the stairs on her way to the nursery, a mysterious telephone call had caused Ruth to rise from her bed some three hours before her usual time and depart hurriedly in a cab. This also helped when she had read Steve's note, telling her that he had taken William away to the cottage in Connecticut.

She would go around to the studio and see Kirk. After all, it was his affair as much as anything else, and she had a feeling that it would be easier to break the news to him than to Ruth and Mrs. Porter.

She rang the studio bell and there came from within the welcome sound of footsteps. An elderly man of a somewhat dissipated countenance opened the door.

"I want to see Mr. Winfield," said Mamie.

"Mr. Penway, for it was he, gave her the approving glance and bawled over his shoulder:

"Kirk!"

"Oh, Mr. Winfield, I'm in such trouble!"

"Why, Mamie! What's the matter? Come in."

"Just a moment, Mamie," said Kirk. He picked up a telegram which lay on the table. "I'll read this and see if it's important, and then we'll get right down to business. We only get back a moment before you arrive."

As he read the telegram a look of astonishment came into his face. Mamie waited patiently.

"Good Lord!" he muttered.

A sudden thought struck Mamie. "Mr. Winfield, is it from Steve?"

"How on earth did you know? Good heavens! Are you in this, Mamie, too?"

Mamie handed him her note. He read it without a word. When he had finished he sat back in his chair, thinking.

"I thought Steve might have telegraphed to you," said Mamie.

Kirk roused himself from his thoughts. "I'll tell you, you can tell them whatever you please when you get home. It's not your fault. Tell them that Steve is acting for me with my complete approval. Tell them that the kid's on top or we brought up right from now on. I've got him, and I'm going to keep him."

Mamie had risen and was facing him, a very determined midwife.

"I'm not going home, Mr. Winfield," she said.

"If you are going to Bill, I am coming with you."

"Nonsense."

She glared at him defiantly. He glared back at her. Then his sense of humor came to his rescue. A hand went up to her and placed a hand on each of her shoulders, looking down at her.

"You're a brick, Mamie. Of course you shall come. We'll call on the house and you can pack your grip. But, by George, if you put that infernal thermometer in I'll run the automobile up against a telegraph pole, and then Bill will lose us both."

It was nearly 7 o'clock when Mrs. Porter reached the house. She was a little tired from her journey, but in high good humor.

"Is Mrs. Winfield in?" she asked Kegg as he admitted her.

"No, madam, she's not. Mrs. Winfield has not yet returned."

"But she's not gone to her yacht party is next week, I understand."

"Yes, madam."

"Where has she gone?"

"To Tuxedo, madam."

"Tuxedo?"

"Mrs. Winfield has just rung us up from there upon the telephone to request that the kid's going to an indefinite stay be dispatched to her. She is visiting Mrs. Bailey Bannister. If I may be allowed to say so, madam, I think that the must have been trouble at Mrs. Bannister's. A telephone call came for her very early this morning for Mrs. Winfield which caused Mrs. Winfield to rise and leave in a taxi cab in an extreme hurry. If I might be allowed to suggest it, it is probably a case of serious illness. Mrs. Winfield was looking very disturbed."

"H-m!" said Mrs. Porter. She went upstairs. Her intention was to look in at the nursery and satisfy herself that all was well with William Bannister. Perhaps her keen eye might be able to detect some deviation from the rules she had laid down.

It detected one at once. The nursery was empty, but from conversation with the other domestics, I find that he seems to have disappeared!"

"Perhaps Mrs. Winfield took him with her to Tuxedo."

"No, madam, Mrs. Winfield was alone. I was present when she drove away."

"Send Mamie to me at once," said Mrs. Porter.

"The young person is not in the house, madam."

"Not in the house? What business has she to be out? Where is she?"

operations—whichever, as Bailey had the control of her money, was unfortunate for her. The manipulation of money for profit and the manipulation of her legacy entirely to Bailey. Her father, she knew, had always had a high opinion of Bailey's business instincts, and that was good enough for her.

It was common report now that Bailey was taking big chances. Some said so far as to say that he was "asking for it." "It" in his case being presumably the Nemesis which waits on those who taken big chances in an uncertain market. It was in the air that he was "going up against" the Pinkney-Dowd group and the Norman-Graham combination; and everybody knew that the cemeteries of Wall street were full of the unnumbered graves of others who in years past had attempted to do the same.

Weariness and depression had settled on Ruth since that afternoon of the storm. It was as if the storm had wrought an awakening in her. It had marked a definite point of change in her outlook. She felt as if she had been roused from a trance by a sharp blow.

If Steve had but known, she had had the "jolt" by which he set such store. She knew now that she had thrown away the substance for the shadow.

And then, this morning, had come a voice from the world she had lost—little Mrs. Bailey's voice, small and timid.

Could she possibly come out by the next train? Bailey was very ill. Bailey was dying. Bailey had come home last night looking ghastly. He had not slept. In the early morning he had begun to babble.

Little Mrs. Bailey was waiting for her on the platform when she got out of the train at Tuxedo. Her face was drawn and miserable. She looked like a beaten kitten.

"Oh, my dear, I'm so glad you've come. He's better, but it has been awful. The doctors have had to fight him to keep him in bed. He was crazy to get to town. He kept saying over and over again that he must be at the office. They gave him something, and he was asleep when I left the house."

He had said that if he stayed away from the office for some time to come it would mean love in a cottage for them for the rest of their lives—and that "My dear child," he had gone on, "and you know when Bailey calls me that," said Sybil, "it means that there is something in the matter; for, as a rule he never calls me anything but my name, or baby, or something like that."

"My dear child," he went on, "this week is about the most important week you and I are ever likely to live through. It's the show-down. We either soon get on top or we blow up like a thing or the other. And if I take a few days' holiday just now you had better start looking about for the best place to sell your jewelry."

"Those were his very words," she said tearfully. "I remember them all. It was so unlike his usual way of talking."

Ruth acknowledged that it was. More than ever she felt that she did not know the complete Bailey.

At the cottage gossip news awaited them. The crisis was past. Bailey was definitely out of danger. He was still asleep, and sleeping easily. It had been just an ordinary breakdown due to worrying and overwork, said the doctor, the bigger of the doctors, the one who had been summoned from New York.

After dinner they sat out on the porch, the cool dusk was soothing. Ruth broke a long silence.

"Sybil, dear."

"May I tell you something?"

"Well?"

"I'm afraid it's bad news."

"How did you know?"

"I guess I've been trying to do it all day, but I hadn't the pluck. Well?"

"I'm afraid things are about as bad as they can be. Mr. Meadows spoke to me. He was very gloomy. He told me a lot of things which I couldn't follow, details of what had happened, but I understand all that was necessary. I'm afraid."

Sybil shook her head.

No, Bailey was talking to me upstairs. I expected it."

There was a long silence.

"Ruth."

"Yes?"

"I'm afraid."

A sudden light of understanding came to Ruth. "My money has gone? Is that it?"

Sybil did not answer. Ruth went quickly to her and took her in her arms.

"You poor baby," she cried. "Was that what was on your mind, wondering how you should tell me? I knew there was something troubling you."

Ruth, left alone on the porch, fell into a pleasant train of thought. There was something in her mental attitude which amused her. She wondered if anybody had ever received the announcement of financial ruin in quite the same way before. Yet to her this attitude seemed the only one possible.

She was roused from her dream by the sound of an automobile drawing up at the door. A voice that she recognized called her name. She went quickly down the steps.

"Is that you, Aunt Lora?"

Mrs. Porter, masterly woman, never wasted time in useless chatter. "Jump in, my dear," she said crisply. "Your husband has stolen William and eloped with that girl Mamie. When I never trusted to Connecticut."

It was past 7 o'clock when Kirk, bending over the wheel, with Mamie at his side, came in sight of the shack. The journey had been checked outside the city by a blowout in one of the back tires.

There was a light in the ground-floor window. He raised his head and shouted:

"Steve!"

The door opened.

"Hello, Kirk. That you? Come along in. You're just in time for the main performance."

He caught sight of Mamie standing beside Kirk.

"Who's that?" he cried.

"It's me, Steve," said Mamie in her small voice.

Mamie entered the house without speaking. It seemed to Steve that in spite of her having been better than this ominous silence, she looked ruefully at her retreating back and turned to greet Kirk.

"You're mighty late," he said.

"I only got your telegram toward the end of the afternoon. I had been Steve ventured a question.

"Say, Kirk, why 'us,' while we're talking of it? How does Mamie come to be here?"

companions.

Ruth felt confused and uncertain. A single unfortunate phrase of Kirk's spoken in haste, but remembered at leisure, formed the basis of this uncertainty. That afternoon when he had left her he had said that Mamie was the real mother of

"Mr. Winfield!"

Still Kirk made no sign that he had heard her. It was discouraging, but Lora Delane Porter was not made of the stuff that yields readily to discouragement. She resumed:

"As for this wretched girl!"—she indicated the silent Mamie with a wave of her hand—"this abandoned creature whom you have led astray, this shameless partner of yours!"

"Say!"

The exclamation came from Steve, and it stopped Mrs. Porter like a bullet. To her this interruption from one whom she had fallen upon and wine out resembled a voice from the tomb.

Steve brightened, but became subdued again next moment.

CHAPTER VI

Of the little band, it would be hard to say which was the most taken aback at the arrival of Mrs. Porter and Ruth. The excitement of the moment had kept them from hearing the sound of the automobile which Mrs. Porter, mistaking the rough road that led to the shack, had stopped some distance away.

Perhaps, on the whole, Kirk was more surprised that either of his the child. Could it be that Mamie's undeviating devotion to the boy had won the love which she had lost? It was possible. Considered in the light of what Mrs. Porter had told her, it seemed, in her blackest moments, certain.

She tried to read Kirk's face as he stood looking at her now, but she could find no hope in it. The eyes that met hers were cold and expressionless.

Mrs. Porter rapped the table.

"Mr. Whitfield, I have no doubt you are surprised to see us. You appear to be looking your wife in the face. It speaks well for your courage but badly for your sense of shame. If you had any remnants of decent feeling in you, you would be physically incapable of the feat. If you would care to know how my conduct strikes an unprejudiced spectator, I may tell you that I consider you a scoundrel of the worst type and unfit to associate with any but the low company in which I find you."

Steve, who had been listening with interest, moaned protestingly, and rashly, for he drew the speaker's attention upon himself.

"This person," went on Mrs. Porter, indicating Steve with a wave of her hand which caused him to sidestep swiftly and throw up an arm, see that he gets his money. In his place I should be feeling uneasy."

"Ma'am!" protested Steve.

Mrs. Porter silenced him with a gesture.

Mrs. Porter returned to Kirk.

Of all her burning words Kirk had not heard one. His eyes had never left Ruth's. Like her, he was trying to read a message from a face that seemed only cold.

His inattention seemed to commu-

HELTONS TO GIVE CONCERT TONIGHT

Tonight at 6 o'clock listeners to station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, will again hear the Helton brothers, who made their most recent appearance at the studio of Station WGM last Saturday.

thought with them a five-piece orchestra, their own, which featured the Helton brothers bringing with them their dance organization, which consists of 15 pieces.

The orchestra is directed by Earl Helton, pianist and artist on the French horn. Wendell J. Helton, trombonist and saxophonist, is the business manager of the dance organization.

Both of the Heltons are excellent musicians and were first heard a decade months ago when they stood as soloists for radio station WGM. Since then they have been heard numerous times by radio.

The concert last Saturday night by the Helton brothers' orchestra was another triumph for the Heltons.

CIVITANS TO PUSH CHAMBER'S DRIVE

General Campaign Closes Today, But Civitans Will Continue Week Longer. Permanent Drive Proposed.

A final luncheon meeting in the chamber of commerce membership campaign was held Friday, at which it was announced that the Civitan club would make next week a "Civitan Chamber of Commerce week," and that twenty members of the club had volunteered to serve in the "stock squad" that would call on a large number of prospects who have not yet been solicited.

"Gentlemen, this is our last luncheon meeting in this particular campaign," said W. O. Foote, president of the chamber of commerce, "but the movement has just begun—although tomorrow at 9:30 o'clock the intensive campaign will end and the prizes will be awarded to the contestants. The work of enlarging the scope of the chamber of commerce activities will be carried through to completion. The Civitan club is going to carry on an intensive campaign in the interest of a greater city through the chamber of commerce next week, and a number of workers have volunteered to give some time each week during the remainder of the year—so the work is going on, and by the first of the year we will have completed the program laid out in the beginning.

"Greatest Campaign. I want to say, gentlemen, that I have worked in many campaigns during the past ten years in Atlanta, and I am frank to admit that this has been the greatest campaign I have ever been connected with. It is true that we have not reached the goal set, but the greatness of the campaign is obvious in that we have started something that is certain to mean big things for Atlanta.

"I want to think the workers in this campaign. They have rendered services which money could not have bought, and it has been gratifying, indeed, to witness such unselfish devotion to the city of Atlanta as has been manifested by the men who have given up their private interests in order to work for the common good during these days.

"The chamber of commerce stands for everything that means the upbuilding of Atlanta, and we are determined to make it the organization among the many in which the people of Atlanta can meet on a common footing—we are for everybody in Atlanta—we will co-operate with every person or organization having as its object securing something good for Atlanta.

"I want to thank the workers and also those who have volunteered to keep up the work. The Civitan club will begin work Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock and right along through the week will work shoulder to shoulder with the others who have offered freely of their time and energies in completing the

AND AMERICAN IN CHINA KIDNAPED

American Residents in Bandit Zone Are in State of Panic—Are Advised to Leave.

Pekin, November 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—George Olaf Holm, an American member of the Lutheran mission, has been kidnapped by bandits in Honan province. The kidnappers are reported to have taken him to a bandit stronghold in the province. A dozen towns have been sacked and burned and the inhabitants forced to flee. Upward of 200 Americans in the danger zone are greatly alarmed, according to the American consul at Hankow.

Mr. Holm is the third American missionary to be carried off by the Honan bandits who also are holding Anton Lundeen and Einar Borgreen, together with the latter's 5-year-old son. Holm was born in Norway but is a naturalized American citizen.

A body of armed bandits entered the city of Hankow last night, seized the missionary in the presence of his wife and two sons and marched him off into the country. So far as is known, the bandits are not interested in the lives of the missionaries, but are permitted to communicate with their families.

Reports from Honan indicate that the bandit activities are becoming more serious, with the outlaws apparently in full control of the province. Hundreds, however, still are scattered throughout the more remote districts, including approximately 300 American missionaries. The American mission school at Chikungshan has fled to Hankow, where martial law has been declared.

IRVING S. THOMAS IS DEAD AT HOME

Prominent Philanthropist Succumbs to Attack of Heart Suffered Three Days Ago—Sisters Here.

Irving S. Thomas, one of the most prominent of Atlanta's philanthropic citizens, died at his home, 1229 Peachtree street, last night, following an attack of the heart suffered three days ago.

Surrounding Mr. Thomas at the time of his death were his wife, for several years president of the Atlanta Woman's club, and one of the most prominent women of the city, his son, Mr. Kenneth S. Thomas, and Miss Ida Thomas, his only surviving relative.

For many years Mr. Thomas was engaged in business activities in Atlanta as a merchandising broker. He retired from active business several years ago and has since devoted his talent to civic and philanthropic enterprises exclusively. Mr. Thomas was 55 years old.

Mr. Thomas was born at Baltimore, Md., but came to Atlanta when a young man and engaged in business here during the latter part of the reconstruction period.

Mr. Thomas is a native Atlantan, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. King.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Two sisters of Mr. Thomas, Mrs. George Conroy, of New York city, and Mrs. William Lee Norwood, of Baltimore, had been summoned to his bedside and will probably arrive Saturday morning.

Anti-Saloon League Not to Make Fight On Seniority Rule

Wayne Wheeler Tells W. C. T. U. "Wets" Suffered in Last Election.

Philadelphia, November 17.—The anti-saloon league will not try to upset the seniority rule in the organization of committees in congress, Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the league declared tonight in a statement prior to his address at the national convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union here. Explaining that there was, however, a growing sentiment against the rule, he said, if the rule is abolished, if it is, we will do our best to prevent opponents of the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment from being chosen as leaders.

In his address Mr. Wheeler said that the "wets" had their best chance to make a good showing at the last election but that they had suffered losses in the senate while more than two-thirds of the house members are against beer and light wine programs.

The address of the national president of the W. C. T. U., Miss Anna Gordon, of Evanston, Ill., was delivered today.

She declared that national prohibition was not hastily enacted; that it was the result of the majority, that it was not "put over" while America's soldiers and sailors were away from the homeland; that prohibition is not unconstitutional; that more liquor is not being consumed under prohibition, that is it not responsible for the crime wave; that it has not cost the government a vast sum of money for enforcement; that drug addiction has not increased and that enforcement has not been a failure.

Ten million women are said to be working through various non-partisan organizations to prevent the enactment of anti-prohibition legislation in a report read by Mrs. Frances P. Parks, national corresponding secretary. Mrs. Parks also announced that a petition to President Harding to use his influence to establish a department of education with a secretary in the cabinet had been signed by presidents of practically every woman's organization in the country. A. M. E. DELEGATES RUSH MACON CONFERENCE

Forsyth, Ga., November 17.—The Macon A. M. E. conference in session here, Bishop J. S. Flipper presiding, is rushing business. When Secretary R. J. Jefferson presided last night some corrections were made in the divisions of the annual sermon last night by Rev. W. A. Austin, by Dean J. A. Lindsay, L. H. Smith, Sr., and L. H. Smith, Jr.

Superintendent C. A. Wingfield, T. J. Linton and W. C. Pierson urged the conference to see to it that each preacher and visitor read the Atlanta Constitution, Weekly and Sunday issues. They said, "There are men who have read that paper for 40 years and, notwithstanding it is a strong democratic daily, it has tried since the days of Henry W. Grady to be fair to the negro."

Said Wingfield: "While our people are going in large numbers to the north and other parts of the country, caused by irregularities in many communities, that big daily has pleaded editorially and otherwise for moderation, wisdom and justice."

Bishop Flipper said in open conference that he would not return Rev. F. Clayton to the Forsyth district for the reason that he did not believe he could command the forces who had seriously fallen down in their reports. He criticized the Extension and the Middle Georgia districts also, saying that they had come short $518.

Dr. R. B. Downs, addressing the conference, spoke of the ministers of the race and how they have the opportunity to create a wholesome, Christian and intelligent influence in the lives of the people. He said the success of the race, from many points of view, depends largely upon our definite training and steady patience.

"Good sense and conservative leadership will come of the individual in the leader, and not of the mass," he said. Presiding Elder J. T. Wilkerson, T. J. Linton, John Harmon, J. A. Lindsay, J. T. A. Lindsay, and J. A. Lindsay, spoke of the departments which they represent.

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary societies read their reports of the national convention to be held in Columbus, Ga., next year, and of the missions founded and the poor pastors helped during the year: their plans to aid the welfare and life of the negro masses in cities, towns and crossroads. They prayed the sympathy and co-operation of the bishop, presiding elders and preachers that they might be strong and faithful in this work—that means the betterment of that class lowest down in the negro race. Rev. L. H. Smith, Sr., offered a motion which was unanimously adopted by the conference, endorsing the women and their work.

The report was given by Mattie L. Walker and Anna L. Hall.

The missionary anniversary was a great meeting last night. Presiding Elder John Harmon presided, while the Bishop Flipper was in council with presiding elders. The speakers told in detail what the denominations had done and are now doing in south and west Africa under Bishops Vernon and Brooks, in the West Indies, commanded by Bishop W. A. Fountain, and in Mexico by Bishop W. D.

The manager of the department at New York said they were doing everything possible with the means at their command.

"We could do so much more with a half million dollars at our command, if we had that much before next Easter," he said. He said he was patient, work hard and trust God."

Rev. W. O. Slade, R. W. Gibson, W. B. Reels, C. J. Jones, W. B. L. Clark, M. A. Hamilton, L. A. Townsley were presented to the conference.

WILLIAM SHARP DIES AT HOME IN OHIO

Elyria, Ohio, November 17.—William Graves Sharp, former ambassador to France, died at his home here shortly before noon today. He had been ill for several days.

Mr. Sharp, who was 61 years old, spent several months in Europe last summer in the interest of his health, and, according to friends, he had been very well since. All of the five Sharp children were summoned to his bedside late yesterday when his condition became serious. Mr. Sharp was American ambassador to France five years serving in Paris during the world war. He resigned his post about a year after the armistice was signed.

KILLS TWO WOMEN AND ENDS OWN LIFE

Aberdeen, Wash., November 17.—Miss Tanya Bolton, 25; Mrs. J. T. O'Brien, 38, and Hjalmar Anderson, 30, are dead today as a result of a double killing and suicide in a cabin at Camp's beach, an ocean point about 25 miles from here, early this morning. Anderson, according to the police, killed the two women, first hacking Miss Bolton with a knife and then killing himself.

Whitehall Building Bought by Connolly For $25,000, Friday

A two-story brick business building at 137 Whitehall street, has been sold by T. W. Tift to Thomas W. Connolly for $25,000, according to an announcement Friday by the Ward Wight Realty company. The transaction was handled by Ward Wight and George Harrison, of the Wight company.

The property has a frontage of 25 feet and runs back 190 feet to an alley.

BROTHER-IN-LAW'S SLAYER IS FREED BY MAGISTRATE

Lafayette, Ga., November 17.—M. J. Orr, charged with killing J. E. Test, his brother-in-law, last Monday near Rock Springs, was discharged following a preliminary hearing before Magistrate G. W. Hamon here today.

According to testimony, Test had become enraged when Orr leveled on a mule for debt, proceeded to the latter's house and demanded that he come out. When Orr appeared, Test approached with his hand in his pocket as if to draw a gun, when he was shot dead by Orr, it was claimed.

It was testified that Test had threatened to kill Orr, whose hand was being held by his 14-year-old daughter when the shooting occurred.
